

HERMANN HESSE

Born at Calw, Germany, July 2, 1877. He started life as a bookseller in Tübingen and Basel, and began to publish poetry at the age of 21. Five years later he had his first great success with his novels on youth and educational problems: first Peter Camenzind, then Unterm Rad (The Prodigy), followed by Siddharta, Rosshalde, Demian, and others. All of them sold by the hundred-thousand; and when, in a protest against German militarism in the First World War, he settled permanently in Switzerland, he was established as one of the greatest literary figures of the German-speaking world. His deep humanity, his searching philosophy developed further in such novels as Der Steppenwolf and Narciss und Goldmund (Goldschmidt), while his poems and critical writings won him a leading place among contemporary thinkers. The Nazis abhorred and suppressed his books; the Swiss honored him by conferring on him the degree of Ph.D., the world finally, by honoring upon him in 1946 the Nobel Prize for Literature, an award richly deserved by his great novel Magnus Luck (Das Glasperlenspiel).
