Regulating Gig Work Joellen Riley Munton, Michael Rawling, 2023-12-12. Digital revolution demands new approaches to regulating work. The Uberisation of work is not in reality a new phenomenon. It reintroduces the practices of on demand engagement of labour common prior to the development of continuing employment. What is new however is the capacity of digital technology to engage labour in ways that avoid characterisation as employment according to the legal tests developed in the 20th century. This book tackles the challenge of ensuring that the emerging tribes of gig workers in labour markets across the globe are afforded decent standards of work. This book discusses how to provide decent conditions and safe working standards for on demand workers engaged through digital platforms. It interrogates the rise of gig work and the legal strategies that might be engaged to deal with the risk that on demand work will fall and remain outside of employment protections. It draws on observations of practices across the globe but focusses particularly on regulatory solutions developed in Australia. The book will be a useful reference to policy making and legal reforms to address vulnerabilities of gig workers.

Urban Mobility Shauna Brail, Betsy Donald, 2024-08-30. Urban Mobility sheds light on mobility in twenty first century Canadian cities. The book explores the profound changes associated with technological innovation, pandemic induced impacts on travel behaviour and the urgent need for mobility to respond meaningfully to the climate crisis. Featuring contributions from leading Canadian and American scholars and researchers, this edited collection traverses disciplines including geography, engineering, management, policy studies, political science and urban planning. Chapters illuminate novel research findings related to a variety of modes of mobility including public transit, e-scooters, bike sharing, ride hailing and autonomous vehicles. Contributors draw out the connections between urban challenges, technological change, societal need and governance mechanisms. The collection demonstrates why the smart phone, COVID 19 and climate present a crucial lens through which we can understand the present and future of urban mobility. The way we move in cities has been disrupted and altered because of technological innovation, the lingering impacts of COVID 19 and efforts to reduce transport related emissions. Urban Mobility concludes that the path forward requires good public policy from all levels of government working in partnership with the private sector and non profits to direct and address the best urban mobility framework for Canadian cities.
