Anxiety Relief Top Tutorial:

Towards an Understanding of the Cognitive Mechanisms Involved in Threat Processing and Perception Andras Norbert Zsido, Carlos M. Coelho, David S. March, Michael Craig Hout, Jakub Polák, 2024-06-05 Much remains unknown about the cognitive mechanisms and information processing biases involved in threat detection or the acquisition and maintenance of threat associations To complicate the picture these mechanisms and biases likely differ between various types of threats e g those originating from animals weapons social situations or groups There has been a recent push to highlight ways of improving methods used in research in this area which has likewise prompted theoretical revisions It is therefore important to continue clarifying the cognitive mechanism e g perception attention memory learning underlying threat processing to develop a better understanding of how they affect social outcomes For example very little is known about how social identity hierarchy group structure and other social cues affect our responses in threatening situations As the social environment impacts our daily psychological functioning one might suspect it has an important role in threat processing as well
