Young, 2000-01-01 The management of risk is a fundamental purpose of government Whether risks arise from the physical environment the economic environment or even from changes in voter preferences public institutions have a broad responsibility to assess and address the risks that impact the community they serve and their organisation Public bodies are operating in a dynamic environment The imposition of a Best Value regime is forcing them not only to perform more efficiently effectively and responsively but also to develop best practices and benchmarking criteria to demonstrate their performance At the same time the ever increasing delegation of responsibilities from central government and the European Union has widened their exposure to risk Public institutions are now encouraged to partner with the private sector and outsource some of their traditionally retained services generating agency and delegation exposures In such an environment controlling the cost of risk has become a real priority But risk management is not just about preventing losses and reducing costs Increasingly risk management is defined as the co-ordinated management of all risks This definition serves to encompass risk taking where it serves to meet overall organisational objectives This broader view of risk management known as organisation risk management asserts that risk management is a general management function that permeates an organisation is linked to the organisation's overall strategic plan and serves to enable the operational achievement of organisational goals and objectives Under this frame of reference risk management is not something a risk management department practices on a public body but rather an organisational value that informs and supports all managers and employees duties and activities Risk management is a central purpose of public institutions Public Sector Risk Management addresses the major challenges facing public bodies today and provides the basic tools necessary for
