Rising Life Expectancy A Global History:

Rising Life Expectancy James C. Riley, 2001-06-04 Between 1800 and 2000 life expectancy at birth rose from about 30 years to a global average of 67 years and to more than 75 years in favored countries This dramatic change was called a health transition characterized by a transition both in how long people expected to live and how they expected to die Rising Life Expectancy examines the way humans reduced risks to their survival both regionally and globally to promote world population growth and population aging

A Global History of Medicine Mark Jackson, 2018-01-05 In recent decades there has been considerable interest in writing histories of medicine that capture local regional and global dimensions of health and health care in the same frame Exploring changing patterns of disease and different systems of medicine across continents and countries A Global History of Medicine provides a rich introduction to this emergent field The introductory chapter addresses the challenges of writing the history of medicine across space and time and suggests ways in which tracing the entangled histories of the patchworks of practice that have constituted medicine allow us to understand how healing traditions are always plural permeable and shaped by power and privilege Written by scholars from around the world and accompanied by suggestions for further reading individual chapters explore historical developments in health medicine and disease in China the Islamic World North and Latin America Africa South east Asia Western and Eastern Europe and Australia and New Zealand The final chapter focuses on smallpox eradication and reflects on the sources and methods necessary to integrate local and global dimensions of medicine more effectively Collectively the contributions to A Global History of Medicine will not only be invaluable to undergraduate and postgraduate students seeking to expand their knowledge of health and medicine across time but will also provide a constructive theoretical and empirical platform for future scholarship

A History of Population Health Johan P. Mackenbach, 2020-04-14 Winner of the 2021 Choice Outstanding Academic Title Award In A History of Population Health Johan P Mackenbach offers a broad sweeping study of the spectacular changes in people s health in Europe since the early 18th century Most of the 40 specific diseases covered in this book show a fascinating pattern of rise and fall with large differences in timing between countries Using a unique collection of historical data and bringing together insights from demography economics sociology political science medicine epidemiology and general history it shows that these changes and variations did not occur spontaneously but were mostly man made Throughout European history changes in health and longevity were therefore closely related to economic social and political conditions with public health and medical care both making important contributions to population health improvement Readers who would like to have a closer look at the quantitative data used in the trend graphs included in the book can find these it here Leben retten! Peter Singer, 2022-11-25 In dieser Jubil umsausgabe von Leben retten bringt Peter Singer zehn Jahre nach der Erstausgabe sein bahnbrechendes Werk auf den neuesten Stand Er wiederholt nicht nur seine berzeugenden Argumente f r den Kampf gegen extreme Armut stark sondern untersucht auch die inzwischen
