Re: Sessional Trumpet Teacher, Ref A1011

Dear Ms Teach

I am writing to apply for the Sessional Trumpet Teacher role at Greenwood Secondary College, as advertised on the Seek website. As the attached resume shows I am in the final year of my Bachelor of Music degree at Monash University and my relevant experience includes private teaching, preparing students for AMEB exams, ongoing participation in Melbourne Youth Music (MYM) orchestras and event coordination.

Working with MYM orchestras has been particularly rewarding. Focussing on the brass section's cohesive sound has helped me develop my ability to apply technical knowledge of the instrument to ensure that my breathing and tone production is coordinated with the rest of the section. This skill and my ability to learn music quickly and accurately resulted in my recent promotion to section leader. I excel at learning all the section's parts in advance so that I can readily answer technical questions from section members. Ensemble work at Monash helps me a great deal with this orchestral work as our teachers' collaborative style makes each performer feel valued. I apply this approach at MYM to create a sense of teamwork and shared responsibility.

My private students come from a range of ages and backgrounds. I consistently receive positive feedback from parents that students find the individual learning plans I develop for them motivating, and students report that seeing evidence of their own progress increases their engagement with music. From my discussions with Greenwood's music staff I understand that my practice of collaborating with students about their interests when developing their individual plans aligns with your department's emphasis on nurturing students' enjoyment and sense of achievement by developing their specific interests and abilities. This approach would also help me contribute to the school's broader goal of increasing ongoing student participation in AMEB exams, school concerts, school productions and interschool competitions.

In addition to improving my musicianship and performing skills my time at university has enabled me to develop significant administrative and event management skills in my role as Chair of the steering committee for Music on Menzies. These skills were demonstrated by coordinating all aspects of Music on Menzies, an annual university student music event which attracts an audience of 2000 each year. I feel the event's success has been helped by my collaborative work style and communication skills which enabled me to identify and recruit stakeholders to the event steering committee.

I feel the range of skills I offer would help me increase student uptake of the brass program at Greenwood as well as support for the school's music programs from the broader school community. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss the role with you at an interview and look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely

Melody Muscian
