Markham, 2003 This law school casebook focuses on the corporate and securities laws relating to corporate combinations Coverage also extends to tax antitrust and financial issues Cases and other materials are followed by informative notes and questions It is organized to make it easy for you to omit or rearrange material to adapt the book to your particular teaching approach Designed for use in either as a stand alone text or as the basic source material for projects problems or writing assignments to supplement the traditional case method The book is suitable for use for either a two or three credit hour course

Draft Climate Change Bill Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2007-07-05 This report examines the draft Climate Change Bill which published in March 2007 as Command paper Cm 7040 ISBN 9780101704021 Target setting alone cannot deliver policy objectives but enshrining one in law will strengthen the Government's resolve to achieve it ensure greater public accountability and give confidence to the business community whose investment decisions are central to meeting the target The Committee recommends a number of changes to the bill Inconsistency in language with UK carbon account and UK carbon dioxide emissions seemingly used interchangeably should be addressed There should not be an upper limit on the 2020 target 26 32 per cent reduction in carbon dioxide emission and the Bill should make provision for both the 2020 and 2050 targets to be revised though only in an upwards direction The provision to amend a budget more than a year after the end of a budgetary period is seen as making a nonsense of the concept of budgetary periods and should be removed completely The proposed Committee on Climate Change rightly composed of experts should not appear to give more representation to economic interests over environmental ones The resources proposed for the Committee may prove inadequate The Committee recommends that the impact of climate change on biodiversity should be added to the Bill
