Women, Elections, and Representation Robert Darcy, Susan Welch, Janet Clark, 1987 The authors take a unique approach they reject the view that women should accommodate themselves to the system and argue instead that the system has an inherent obligation to accommodate itself to women Using data from local state and national levels they formulate a model of elections The authors contend that as the number of qualified women increases more will run for office and more will be elected As more women are elected the incumbency factor will assist in their reelection until the number of elected women reaches parity with that of men Book Cover
