Researching Local History No 1:

Researching Local History Stuart A. Raymond, 2022-09-08 How has the place we live in changed developed and grown over the centuries That is the basic question local historians seek to answer The answer is to be found in the sources of information that previous generations have left us The records of parish county and diocesan administration of the courts of the national government and of private estates all have something to tell us about the history of the locality we are interested in So do old newspapers and other publications All of these sources are readily available but many have been little used Local historians come from a wide diversity of backgrounds But whether you are a student researching a dissertation a family historian interested in the wider background history of your family a teacher a librarian an archivist an academic or are merely interested in the history of your own area this book is for you If you want to research local history you need a detailed account of the myriad sources readily available This book provides a comprehensive overview of those sources and its guidance will enable you to explore and exploit their vast range It poses the questions which local historians ask and identifies the specific sources likely to answer those questions New Directions in Local History Since Hoskins Christopher Dyer, Andrew James Hopper, Evelyn Lord, Nigel J. Tringham, 2011 Local history in Britain can trace its origins back to the sixteenth century and before but it was given inspiration and a new sense of direction in the 1950s and 60s by the work of W G Hoskins This book marks the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of his Local history in England which was designed to help people researching the history of their own villages and towns It is the result of a collaboration between academic historians in the Centre for English Local History at the University of Leicester which Hoskins founded and the British Association for Local History an organisation that brings together the thousands of people who are not professional academics but who practise local history Taking the work of Hoskins as a starting point the contributors show how local history is being researched and written today Fifteen historians write about a variety of local history subjects which are significant in their own right but which also point to current trends in the subject They show how local historians use their sources systematically from the non verbal evidence of buildings to various types of electronic resources All periods between the middle ages and the early twenty first century are explored as are many different parts of the country from Skye to the Kent coast There are examples of local historians working on ethnic minorities gender and the working class Those who study localities use a variety of approaches including those of social economic religious legal intellectual and cultural history all of which are employed here They are aware of the roots of their subject and examine the history of local history itself Together the editors and authors raise the various dilemmas which stimulate debates among local historians about the nature of the subject its present health and the directions it will take in the next half century APAIS 1994: Australian public affairs information service , Research in Education ,1971 Catalogue de la Bibliothèque Des Archives Publiques Public Archives Canada.
