Resource Regimes Oran R. Young, 2021-01-08 This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1982 Local Commons and Global Interdependence Robert O Keohane, Elinor Ostrom, 1994-11-15 This volume offers a synthesis of what is known about very large and very small common pool resources Individuals using commons at the global or local level may find themselves in a similar situation At an international level states cannot appeal to authoritative hierarchies to enforce agreements they make to cooperate with one another In some small scale settings participants may be just as helpless in calling on distant public officials to monitor and enforce their agreements Scholars have independently discovered self organizing regimes which rely on implicit or explicit principles norms rules and procedures rather than the command and control of a central authority The contributors discuss the possibilities and dangers of scaling up and scaling down They explore the impact of the number of actors and the degree of heterogeneity among actors on the likelihood of cooperative behaviour

Valencia, 2021-10-18 The past few decades have witnessed the emergence of a vast array of regional arrangements and institutions dealing with all aspects of ocean management The level of cooperation ranges from minimal dispute avoidance to relatively comprehensive ocean governance at the regional level As concrete examples reasonably successful and comprehensive regional regimes have been created for the Baltic the North and the Mediterranean Seas and the South Pacific And attempts at regional regime building are ongoing in Southeast Asia the South China Sea and the Indian Ocean Although there are broad similarities between the semi enclosed seas of Western Europe and Northeast Asia no regional maritime regime has yet been initiated in Northeast Asia The papers in this volume are authored by leading authorities on not only the maritime affairs of their particular region of focus but on maritime policy in general They describe and explain existing or incipient regional maritime regimes in an unusually broad comparative context and extract lessons learned that may be applicable elsewhere including Northeast Asia The case studies are neatly sandwiched between an introduction to concepts and principles on regional co operation and concluding chapters on lessons learned and their applicability to Northeast Asia Moreover the papers raise and address several questions of relevance to policy For example what factors are conducive to maritime regime initiation expansion and positive evolution and which constrain regime formation and evolution Why has maritime regime building been successful in Europe and largely unsuccessful in Asia And which if any lessons learned in the European context are applicable in Asia Given the growing interest in regime formation and effectiveness in general and maritime regimes in particular this book will be of considerable interest to both analysts and policymakers

United States Arctic Interests W.E. Westermeyer, K.M. Shusterich, 2012-12-06 Elliot L Richardson The United States is finally awakening to the fact that it has a major stake in the future of the Arctic Recognition of the national importance of the Arctic has been slow in coming despite the resource wealth that Arctic Alaska has thus far yielded Although the United States has had strategic interests in the Arctic since World War II and active oil and gas interests there since the discovery of oil at Prudhoe Bay in 1968 its interest in the Arctic has been low in comparison with that of its Arctic neighbors Canada and the Soviet Union What has been described by some as an attitude of neglect toward the Arctic is now changing The notion of change has become central in most current discussions about the future of the Arctic It is apparent that the Arctic region is entering a period of greatly accelerated economic social strategic and is political change The driving force behind the changes taking place resource development activity and although the present scale of this activity is not inconsequential it is small in comparison to its projected growth in the next two decades In short the Arctic is about to come alive However knowledge of the Arctic and experience in the Arctic is comparatively limited Moreover competing interests and differing values exist among national groups and between countries in the Arctic just as they do in the lower latitudes Common Pool Resources and Collective Action Fenton S.
