Restructuring The Schools Problems And Prospects Series On Contemporary Educational Issues:

Restructuring the Schools John J. Lane, Edgar G. Epps, 1992 Towards Coherence Between Classroom Assessment and Accountability National Society for the Study of Education, 2004-04-15 In analyses of the role of national educational assessment insufficient attention has been paid to the central place of the classroom Rather than encouraging a two way flow of information today's standards based frameworks tend to direct the flow of accountability from the outside into the classroom The authors of this volume emphasize that assessment as it exists in schools today consists mainly of the measurements that teachers themselves design evaluate and act upon every day Improving the usefulness of assessment in schools primarily requires assisting and harnessing this flood of assessment information both as a means of learning within the classroom and as the source of crucial information flowing out of classrooms This volume aims to encourage debate and reflection among educational researchers professionals and policymakers Five source chapters describe successful classroom assessment models developed in partnership with teachers while additional commentaries give a range of perspectives on the issues of classroom assessment standardized testing and accountability Educational Reform Jordan T. Ville, 2001 This book brings together the literature in a field which may define the 21st century Can economic and technological progress continue with educational systems which seem to answer to no one but themselves and which output graduates who can barely read and write and who have only the faintest clue how to use a map This bibliography provides access via Title Author and Subject Indexes Contents Educational Accountability Educational Change Educational Equalisation Educational Leadership Educational Planning Educational Indicators Teacher Research and Educational Reform Sandra Hollingsworth, Hugh Sockett, 1994 The Educational Leadership Challenge Joseph Murphy, 2002 Part I of the National Society for the Study of Education's 101st yearbook explores the changing context of educational leadership in the twenty first century through the lenses of school improvement social justice and democratic community Authors discuss topics such as leadership roles for teachers principals and superintendents rethinking professional development for school leaders school improvement processes for building instructional capacity and the evolving role of leadership in education over time

Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1993 Challenges Facing Special Education Edward L. Meyen, Glenn A. Vergason, Richard J. Whelan, 1993 School Reform, Corporate Style Dorothy Shipps, 2006 Like other big city school systems Chicago's has been repeatedly reformed over the last century Yet its schools have fallen far short of citizens expectations and left a gap between the performances of white and minority students Many blame the educational establishment for resisting change Other critics argue that reform occurs too often still others claim it comes not often enough Dorothy Shipps reappraises the tumultuous history of educational progress in Chicago revealing that the persistent lack of improvement is due not to the extent but rather the type of reform Throughout the twentieth century managerial reorganizations initiated by the business community repeatedly altered the governance structure of schools as well as the relationships of teachers to children and parents but brought little improvement while other more promising reform models were either resisted or crowded out Shipps chronicles how Chicago s corporate actors led abetted or restrained nearly every attempt to transform the city s school system then asks whether schools might be better reformed by others To show why city schools have failed urban children so badly she traces Chicago s reform history over four political eras revealing how corporate power was instrumental in designing and revamping the system Her narrative encompasses the formative era of 1880 1930 when teachers unions moderated business plans previously unexplored business activism from 1930 to 1980 when civil rights dominated school reform and the decentralization of the 1980s She also covers the uneasy cooperation among business associations in the 1990s to install the mayor as head of the school system a governing regime now challenged by privatization advocates Business people may be too wedded to a stunted view of educators to forge a productive partnership for change Unionized teachers bridle at the second class status accorded them by managers If reform is to reach deeply into classrooms Shipps concludes it might well require a new coalition of teachers unions and parents to create a fresh agenda that supersedes corporate interests This study clearly shows that in Chicago as elsewhere urban schooling is intertwined with politics and power By reviewing more than a century of corporate efforts to make education work Shipps makes a strong case that it s high time to look elsewhere perhaps to educators themselves for new leadership
