Principles of Perceptual Learning and Development
Eleanor J. Gibson,1967 An Odyssey in Learning and Perception Eleanor J. Gibson,1994-02-03 An Odyssey in Learning and Perception documents a fifty year intellectual expedition in the areas of learning and perception always with an eye to combining them in a theory of perceptual learning and development a theory that may be broadly applicable to humans and nonhumans young and old In the field of psychology beginning in the 1950s Eleanor J Gibson nearly single handedly developed the field of perceptual learning with a series of brilliant studies that culminated in the seminal work Perceptual Learning and Development An Odyssey in Learning and Perception brings together Gibson s scientific papers including difficult to find or previously unpublished work along with classic studies in perception and action Gibson introduces each paper to show why the research was undertaken and concludes each section with comments linking the findings to later developments A personal essay touches on the questions and concerns that guided her research

An Ecological Approach to Perceptual Learning and Development Eleanor J. Gibson, Anne D. Pick, 2003-05-15 The essential nature of learning is primarily thought of as a verbal process or function but this notion conveys that pre linguistic infants do not learn Far from being blank slates that passively absorb environmental stimuli infants are active learners who perceptually engage their environments and extract information from them before language is available The ecological approach to perceiving defined as a theory about perceiving by active creatures who look and listen and move around was spearheaded by Eleanor and James Gibson in the 1950s and culminated in James Gibson's last book in 1979 Until now no comprehensive theoretical statement of ecological development has been published since Eleanor Gibson's Principles of Perceptual Learning and Development 1969 In An Ecological Approach to Perceptual Learning and Development distinguished experimental psychologists Eleanor J Gibson and Anne D Pick provide a unique theoretical framework for the ecological approach to understanding perceptual learning and development Perception in accordance with James Gibson's views entails a reciprocal relationship between a person and his or her environment The environment provides resources and opportunities for the person and the person gets information from and acts on the environment The concept of affordance is central to this idea the person acts on what the environment affords as it is appropriate This extraordinary volume covers the development of perception in detail from birth through toddlerhood beginning with the development of communication going on to perceiving and acting on objects and then to locomotion It is more than a presentation of facts about perception as it develops It outlines the ecological approach and shows how it underlies higher cognitive processes such as concept formation as well as discovery of the basic affordances of the environment This impressive work should serve as the capstone for Eleanor J Gibson's distinguished career as a developmental and experimental psychologist Perceptual Learning and Adaptation P. C. Dodwell, 1970 Perceptual Learning Kevin Connolly, 2019 This book uses recent evidence from psychology and neuroscience to show that perceptual learning is genuinely perceptual rather than post perceptual It also offers a taxonomy for classifying cases in the philosophical literature Perceptual and Motor Skills, 1961 Perceptual and Associative Learning Geoffrey Hall, 1991-11-28 Traditional theories of associative learning have found no place for the possibility that the way in which events are perceived might change as a result of experience Evidence for the reality of perceptual learning has come from those studied by learning theorists The work reviewed in this book shows that learned changes in perceptual organization can in fact be demonstrated even in experiments using procedures such as conditioning and simple discrimination learning of the type on which associative theories have been based These results come from procedures that have been the focus of detailed theoretical and empirical analysis and from this analysis emerges an outline of the mechanisms responsible Some of these are themselves associative others require the addition of nonassociative mechanisms to the traditional theory The result is an extended version of associative theory which it is argued will be relevant not only to the experimental procedures discussed in this book but to the entire range of instances of perceptual
