Privatizing Poland:

Privatizing Poland Elizabeth Cullen Dunn, 2015-09-25 The transition from socialism in Eastern Europe is not an isolated event but part of a larger shift in world capitalism the transition from Fordism to flexible or neoliberal capitalism Using a blend of ethnography and economic geography Elizabeth C Dunn shows how management technologies like niche marketing accounting audit and standardization make up flexible capitalism s unique form of labor discipline This new form of management constitutes some workers as self auditing self regulating actors who are disembedded from a social context while defining others as too entwined in social relations and unable to self manage Privatizing Poland examines the effects privatization has on workers self concepts how changes in personhood relate to economic and political transitions and how globalization and foreign capital investment affect Eastern Europe s integration into the world economy Dunn investigates these topics through a study of workers and changing management techniques at the Alima Gerber factory in Rzesz w Poland formerly a state owned enterprise which was privatized by the Gerber Products Company of Fremont Michigan Alima Gerber instituted rigid quality control job evaluation and training methods and developed sophisticated distribution techniques The core principle underlying these goals and strategies the author finds is the belief that in order to produce goods for a capitalist market workers for a capitalist enterprise must also be produced Working side by side with Alima Gerber employees Dunn saw firsthand how the new techniques attempted to change not only the organization of production but also the workers identities Her seamless engaging narrative shows how the employees resisted redefined and negotiated work processes for themselves Reforming and Privatizing Poland's Road Freight Industry Esra Bennathan, Jeffrey Gutman, Louis S. Thompson, 1991 Options for restructuring and privatizing PKS Poland s main state owned enterprise for road transport of passengers and general freight Privatization in Poland Jan Winiecki, 1992 BANK PRIVATIZATION IN POLAND:

Thompson, 1992 At the end of the 1980s the road transport industries of Poland and Hungary emerged from decades of socialist organization with a small number of massive state owned enterprises surrounded by a margin of small scale private haulage that had been growing steadily during the preceding ten years In the year after the decisive turn in their political systems both countries formulated privatization programs In their programs road haulage was earmarked for privatization but the strategy to be applied to the industry was left open There is none for privatization on the scale envisaged by the transitional economies or from their common starting positions To chart a course one has only the accepted economic objectives of privatization policy to rely on This paper draws on the work in Poland and Hungary but enlarges more than was appropriate in the individual country reports on those common features of the privatization problem of this one specific industry and gives the arguments and conclusions that the authors draw from them
