Rape Defense A Non Confrontational Appro:

Killing in Self-Defence Fiona Leverick, 2006-12-07 This book is a comprehensive analysis of the criminal defence of self defence from a philosophical legal and human rights perspective The primary focus is on self defence as a defence to homicide as this is the most difficult type of self defensive force to justify Although not always recognised as such self defence is a contentious defence permitting as it does the victim of an attack to preserve her life at the expense of another If one holds that all human life is of equal value explaining why this is permissible poses something of a challenge It is particularly difficult to explain where the aggressor is for reasons of non age or insanity for example not responsible for her actions The first part of the book is devoted to identifying the proper theoretical basis of a claim of self defence It examines the classification of defences and the concepts of justification and excuse in particular and locates self defence within this classification It considers the relationship between self defence and the closely related defences of duress and necessity It then proceeds critically to analyse various philosophical explanations of why self defensive killing is justified before concluding that the most convincing account is one that draws on the right to life with an accompanying theory of forfeiture The book then proceeds to draw upon this analysis to examine various aspects of the law of self defence There is detailed analysis of the way in which on a human rights approach it is appropriate to treat the issues of retreat imminence of harm self generated self defence mistake and proportionality with a particular focus on whether lethal force is ever permissible in protecting property or in preventing rape The analysis draws on material from all of the major common law jurisdictions The book concludes with an examination of the implications that the European Convention on Human Rights might have for the law of self defence especially in the areas of mistaken belief and the degree of force permissible to protect property Rape

Defense Robert O. Wright, 1999-11 A New Approach to the History of Violence Francisca Loetz, 2015-06-02 Up to now historical research has treated violence mainly with reference to war murder or massacre Francisca Loetz argues for a new complementary approach to history of violence as an interpersonal form of social action experienced as unacceptable behavior and aiming to subjugate the victim in everyday life Analyzing cases of what the sources call sexual assault and sexual abuse in the city state of Zurich between 1500 and 1850 Loetz discusses fundamental methodological problems such as how can violence be defined as a concept What makes violence what it is in a given society Why is early modern sexual assault and sexual abuse not equivalent to modern rape and abuse How does Zurich compare with pre modern Europe

Sexing the Look in Popular Visual Culture Kathy Justice Gentile, 2020-05-15 With dramatic advances in media technology the practice of sexing or erotically enhancing images has become an increasingly widespread phenomenon The eroticized look as both noun and verb the thing or image that draws our look and the look that we bestow on images that elicit our visual physiological and emotional attention is the focus of the essays in this volume Every day whether we are out in the world or in the workplace or in the privacy of our homes we enter visual fields that heighten and distort reality distortions that often emphasize sexuality and erotic promise The contributors for this collection look at the sexualization of visual culture from a range of disciplinary perspectives including literature film studies history philosophy art history and media studies with gender and sexuality studies providing the encompassing critical framework that binds these essays into a coherent analytical project The essays in this collection offer new theoretical conceptions of perception and representation as well as rigorous reconsiderations of the polarized feminist debates over pornographic images Essays on literature and film range from an interrogation of Baudrillard s theory of seduction that posits femininity as a strategy of illusion and subversion to Bridget Jones s challenge to the prevailing disciplinary regime that prescribes rigid standards for feminine beauty to a reevaluation of the subversive potential of sexy female robots Other contributors consider the history of nudist images in US periodicals the proliferation of eroticized images of girls in new digital technologies gentlemanly masculinity in men s fashion in late Victorian England and a rape prevention campaign s unintentional reinforcement of persistent heterosexist misconceptions about rape

Remaking Relapse Prevention with Sex Offenders D. Richard Laws, Stephen M. Hudson, Tony Ward, 2000-04-19 It is estimated that relapse prevention methods are employed in more than 90% of all North American sex offender treatment programs of which there are more than 2 000 Comparable statistics are true in most industrialized countries around the world Over the last decade a great deal has been learned about the treatment of sexual offenders and particularly about relapse prevention This sourcebook provides clinicians with the most current practical useable information about working with sex offenders to prevent relapse It reflects the advances and insights of the past decade since the publication of Relapse Prevention with Sex Offenders focusing on the major reconceptualizations revisions and innovations that will chart treatment programs for the first decade of the new millennium
