Power Authority Restrictive Practices:

Industrial Policy in Britain 1945-1951 Martin Chick,2002-04-30 This is a detailed archive based study of the economic planning of the Attlee governments in which the author seeks to analyse the interaction between the decisions of central planners and the micro economic effects of these decisions Throughout the book Martin Chick pays particular attention to the level pattern and quality of fixed capital investment At the same time there is a continuous concern with the struggle between politicians economists and industrialists over the mix of pricing mechanisms and administrative orders which were to be used in this period This struggle permeated all discussions over matters such as the organisation of nationalised industries the monopoly structure of nationalised industries the allocation of resources and the promotion of higher productivity The author also asks what impact if any economic planning had on the productivity performance of the UK economy Crisis Management in the Power Industry Frank Ledger,Howard Sallis,2017-09-08 This book originally published in 1995 is a study of crisis management in the electricity supply industry during the 20th century The full implications of the vulnerability of the industry are examined with special reference to past industrial action The authors were well placed to know how close the industry came on more than one occasion to disaster In the wake of privatisation challenging and controversial questions are asked which are of fundamental importance to the economy quality of life and political stability of the country An account is also given of the past structure technology and industrial relations of the industry This volume is an excellent case study for students of post war politics public sector management and industrial relations Committees And Commissions In India Vol. 6 : 1964-65 Virendra Kumar,1976 The Economic Background to Investment H. Flipping the Story on Disability and Violence Patsie Frawley,Nancy Fitzsimons,2025-09-30 Internationally there is a growing awareness that domestic family and sexual violence is a social issue that results from social structures and relational contexts that have positioned women as less than men Alongside this growing awareness has come social action by women and their allies that aim to change these social and relational structures using an intersectional framing of oppression People with disabilities especially people with an intellectual disability have been largely excluded from this social action However for decades they have been challenging the oppressive social and relational structures that frame them as of less value than non disabled people Aligned with this self advocacy are social ecological models that look systemically to understand why interpersonal violence occurs and to prevent violence This book introduces a unique flipped social ecological model and applies it to approaches from across the world that are working from the societal community relationship and individual levels to challenge the vulnerable victim discourse through positioning people with intellectual and other disabilities as social change agents shaping their safer lives Divided into six chapters and providing case examples from Australia the United States New Zealand the United Kingdom Norway Sweden and the Global South this book profiles work done by government and community based anti violence service sectors in partnership with people with intellectual disability and their allies as well as work on sexuality rights and disability advocacy that is contributing to the social effort to prevent interpersonal violence against people with an intellectual disability It is a must read resource for anyone doing interpersonal violence prevention research and work and can be used as primary or supplemental reading for students doing coursework and research in disability studies gender studies community psychology sociology public health and social work The English Reports: Vice-Chancellors' courts (1815-1865) ,1906 Report India.
