Participation and Learning Alan Reid, Bjarne Bruun Jensen, Jutta Nikel, Venka Simovska, 2007-10-12 The Research in Participatory Education Network RIPEN was initiated by the Research Programme for Environmental and Health Education at the Danish School of Education

University of Aarhus in 2003 It embraces a broad spectrum of researchers scholars students and practitioners of participatory education working in or from Europe North America Africa and Australasia Given the international scope of the network and the range of interests it now has as initiators and early participants in the network the editorial team invited RIPEN to discuss what a critical perspective on participatory approaches to education might mean for education and the environment health and sustainability and how network members might research and substantiate their claims and arguments Following the introductory chapter on the scope of this collection 19 chapters illustrate the contributors responses to that invitation Our focus on critical perspectives was prompted by earlier work by Majid Rahnema in Wolfgang Sachs s 1992 Development Dictionary Critiquing concepts of participation in a volume that set out to stimulate cultural historical and anthropological debate on the key concepts of development Rahnema p 126 wrote Participation which is also a form of intervention is too serious and ambivalent a matter to be taken lightly or reduced to an amoeba word lacking any precise meaning or a slogan or fetish or for that matter only an instrument or methodology

Re-Shaping Learning: A Critical Reader Anne Boddington, Jos Boys, 2012-01-01 Learning Spaces is an emerging field fuelled by a growing interest in the relationships between learning and spaces in which it takes place whether conceptual personal social physical and or virtual It is concerned with making learning spaces that can better meet the needs of 21st century learners academics and other related publics In post compulsory education this has opened up many interesting and important issues There remains a lack of any theoretical understanding as to how such spaces should be conceived or designed and hardly any critical discussion about effective frameworks for either the development of contemporary learning spaces or for assessing their impact on learning teaching and research At the same time there is much debate about what the purposes of post compulsory education should be as well as concerns about where and by whom it should be provided We therefore need to urgently improve our understanding of the interactions between learning and space It is essential that we not only share perspectives theories and methodologies but also critically reflect on our own different assumptions and work together to build better models for post compulsory education in the future To help in this process this book is designed as a critical reader that can enable researchers academics students and managers involved in Learning Spaces to share and engage with some key ideas issues and texts A central aim is to bring together some of the best research from across the many different disciplines concerned with learning spaces including education architecture anthropology human computer interaction estate planning and museum studies Reshaping Learning is thus intended for anyone interested in and wanting to think more about learning spaces whether as users clients or managers or who are want to better understand interactions between the social and the spatial
