Understanding Service-learning and Community Engagement, 2012      Service-Learning to Advance Access & Success Travis T. York, Alan S. Tinkler, Barri E. Tinkler, 2018-11-01 Throughout the 90s and early 2000s service learning research was intensely focused on the student outcomes That body of research has effectively brought service learning from the fringes into the mainstream of institutionalized pedagogies In the past decade service learning research has experienced an infusion of exploration in three distinct ways first large scale quantitative methodologies second a proliferation of research that has explored how different sub groups of students experience the pedagogy differently thusly resulting in variation among outcomes and third a focus on the experiences and outcomes associated for communities and community partners engaged in service learning In an effort to support these movements this volume of the Advances in Service Learning Research series Service Learning to Advance Access Success Bridging Institutional and Community Capacity focuses on how service learning can advance access and success Not simply access and success of students but the ways that service learning can advance access and success for all through bridging institutional and community capacity building The chapters in this volume serve as a testament to the ways in which service learning research continue to be advanced by thoughtful scholar practitioners The 12 chapters included in this volume are organized into three sections The first section focuses on how institutional and community partnerships can be leveraged to build community capacity The second section focuses on how institutions might build their own capacity to effect change for the good of society The third and final section focuses on six studies exploring the relationship service learning pedagogy has with access and success for students Of the six studies three are situated within the context of teacher preparation programs      Service Learning Su-I Hou, 2017 Editor Biography Dr Su I Hou is currently Professor of the Department of Health Management and Informatics College of Health and Public Affairs COHPA at the University of Central Florida UCF Orlando FL She serves as the Health track coordinator of COHPA s interdisciplinary Doctoral Program in Public Affairs Prior coming to UCF Dr Hou was a founding faculty member and Founding Director of the Taiwan Public Health Study Abroad Program at the College of Public Health at the University of Georgia Athens GA She serves as an Associate Editor for the Journal of Community Engagement and Higher Education as well as an Associate Editor for the Health Promotion Practice Society of Public Health Education s official journal devoted to the practical application of health promotion and education 2009 2015 Dr Hou is a recognized service learning scholar by the Community Campus Partnership for Health and an inaugural service learning senior scholar for UGA's Office of Service Learning. Most of her research involves working with community partners in developing and validating study instruments assessing psychosocial factors, developing and implementing theory-based programs, and evaluating the effectiveness of health interventions. Dr. Hou has extensive experience integrating course-based service learning into her teaching and has successfully developed a model to build engaged community campus partnerships while providing valuable real-world experiential learning opportunities for her graduate students.

Book Description

In Service Learning: Perspectives, Goals, and Outcomes, the authors examine samples of experimental learning programs in higher education to better understand the influential drivers of service learning pedagogy as well as potential barriers that hinder service learning adoption in higher education settings. Service learning is a structured learning experience that links academic course work and community service, stressing reciprocal learning and reflective practices to address community-identified needs while engaging and developing students' citizenship skills and critical thinking for social change. This book discusses how service learning projects impact students, faculty, higher education institutions, and service learning clients through domestic and international experiences. The research methods demonstrated throughout this text include survey research, mixed methods research, literature reviews, quasi-experiments, and case studies. Chapters within this book evaluate the impact of service learning projects through learning competency outcome measures or reflection analyses. We believe the empirical data and knowledge provided through this book will advance service learning research and support the adoption/integration of service learning opportunities in higher education settings. Moreover, we hope that future research will expand upon lessons provided in this book to continue to build the service learning knowledge base for faculty, students, and institutions.

Part I of this book provides a brief literature review of overcoming service learning barriers in higher education, including discussion of online service learning challenges and strategies. To offer an interdependent analysis of the service learning approach, Parts II, III, and IV include case studies grouped by what may be considered the three primary stakeholder groups: Faculty, Students, and Institutions. Part II, Faculty, will provide detailed analyses of faculty, both tenure-track and off-tenure-track, encountered issues and considerations regarding the integration of service learning projects with the course curriculum. Part III, Students, will discuss learning reflections and personal development outcomes of students who participate in service learning opportunities. Part IV, Institutions, will examine the partnerships between the higher education program and stakeholder communities, both in the domestic and international context. Chapter authors include professors from public, private, domestic, and international universities with experience in student learning and experimental learning. These professors represent disciplines in public health, communication science, and disorders, psychology, community engagement, and education, and have incorporated service learning in their teaching and instruction. It is with sincerity that we express our appreciation to these professionals for their passion and commitment to advance our knowledge base of service learning.
