Movement and Tax Treaties in the Internal Market Maria Hilling, 2005 This book deals with the impact of the free movement rules in the EC Treaty on tax treaties in the internal market This is a highly relevant issue since a provision in breach of the free movement rules is inapplicable The potential far reaching consequences following the preclusion of tax treaty provisions makes it important for taxpayers and governments of the Member States of the EU to predict when a provision in a tax treaty may be in conflict with free movement law This book identifies the rights and obligations stemming from the free movement rules As they are not very detailed the case law is crucial Hence this book includes extensive case law studies focusing primarily on cases where the Court of Justice of the European Communities ECJ has interpreted the free movement rules in relation to tax treaty provisions and unilateral income tax legislation This study provides a systematization of such case law highlighting consistencies and inconsistencies BOOK JACKET

Die Politische Ökonomie der europäischen Integration Martin Höpner, Armin Schäfer, 2008 The Fundamentals of EU Law Revisited Catherine Barnard, 2007 How far should the fundamental principles that shape the EU be reassessed in the light of the Constitutional Treaty's rejection The essays in this volume examine the impact of the debate surrounding the future of the European Constitution on the development of core areas of EU law and policy The Substantive Law of the EU Catherine Barnard, 2010-08-12 Notable for its detailed coverage of the substantive aspects of European law and including case studies flowcharts and diagrams this text focuses principally on the four freedoms the free movement of goods persons services and capital and the rules regulating movement from one Member State to another The Services Directive Ulla Boegh Neergaard, Ruth Nielsen, Lynn M. Roseberry, 2008 The much debated Services Directive was adopted on December 12 2006 This book brings together essays by leading legal scholars from a number of European countries on the consequences of the Directive for the welfare state and the European Social Model Each essay addresses different dimensions of the Services Directive Dagmar Schiek introduces the European Social Model from a more general point of view whereas Ulla Neergaard analyzes the welfare services that are considered services of general economic interest Lynn Roseberry focuses on the general principle of non discrimination Elisabetta Bergamini Jukka Snell and Ruth Nielsen address the more operational chapters of the Services Directive as they focus on the freedom of establishment the freedom to provide services and the rights of recipients of services respectively Finally Frank Hendrickx addresses the issue of social dumping Swedish Studies in European Law, 2006 EU Law and the Social Character of Health Care Elias Mossialos, Martin McKee, 2002 European law is an increasingly important factor in the development and implementation of national and local health policy Yet for many it remains shrouded in mystery The situation with regard to laws impacting on health care is especially problematic as typically consequences arise from policies designed primarily to address problems in other sectors which then establish general principles whose applicability to health care only becomes apparent once interpreted by rulings of the European Court of Justice This book written with the health and social policy community in mind provides a comprehensive assessment of the main implications of EU law in certain key areas of health care Service Provision and Migration Simon J. Tans, 2017-07-03 This book investigates how liberalization of service provision related to movement of natural persons takes shape within EU and WTO law It provides an overview and analysis of the implementation of the identified obligations derived from EU law and the GATS in the Dutch legal order and that of the United Kingdom A thorough investigation of the chosen strategies in each legal order is provided including a comparison of the differences and similarities between these strategies The resulting overview leads to insight into the tension that exists between the international obligations related to service mobility of the two investigated states on the one hand and their migration law and access to the labour market legislation on the other Workers, Establishment, and Services in the European Union Robin C. A. White, 2004 The free movement of persons and services are key elements alongside the free movement of goods and capital in the fundamental freedoms which underpin the European internal market In recent years two key themes have emerged from the case law of the European Court of Justice The first is convergence in the case law on the free movement of goods persons and services in order to ensure the operation of the internal market through the prohibition of discrimination and the outlawing of unjustified obstacles to free movement The second is the case law on the rights which flow from the introduction of citizenship of the European Union which offer constitutional rights for individuals The tensions between these two lines of authority can be explained through a fresh approach to the analysis and synthesis of the Treaty rules and secondary legislation of the European Community and of the case law of the European Court of Justice on free movement of persons and services This approach is based on distinguishing between those rules which relate mainly to the regulation of business activities in the internal market and those which are mainly concerned with individual rights for citizens of the European Union The result is a detailed overview of the law relating to workers establishment and services in the EU in this modern context Free Movement of Goods and Services Within the European Community Lorna Woods, 2004 In this book Lorna Woods examines the framework for commercial activity within the European Community provided by the central provisions on free movement of goods and services She discusses the scope of commercial activity protected the principles underlying the relevant provisions and their application to the field of goods and services and exceptions to the principles of free movement of goods and services which allow member states to restrict trade
