Setting a Research Agenda for Health and the Humanities United States. Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality,2003   Setting a Research Agenda ,1989   Global research agenda on health, migration and displacement World Health Organization,2023-10-30   The future of paediatric clinical trials – setting research priorities for child health World Health Organization,2025-10-28 Despite significant reductions in under five mortality over recent decades progress has stalled and children especially newborns and infants remain markedly underrepresented in clinical research The limited number of clinical trials focused on this age group has resulted in persistent evidence gaps for essential interventions and treatments In response WHO has led a global research prioritization exercise to identify the most critical clinical trial questions in child health This initiative aims to generate high quality policy relevant evidence to inform guidelines direct investment and ensure that clinical research is aligned with the greatest public health needs to improve survival growth and development outcomes for children worldwide   Handbook of Research on Educational Communications and Technology David H. Jonassen,2004 This edition of this handbook updates and expands its review of the research theory issues and methodology that constitute the field of educational communications and technology Organized into seven sectors it profiles and integrates the following elements of this rapidly changing field   Research Agenda for Mathematics Education: Setting a research agenda ,1988   Highway Safety Research Agenda Charles V. integrated model Findings from the empirical cases and the evaluation data are distilled into lessons for strengthening each model as well as suggesting ten priority recommendations for national science policy engagement for agrifood systems

   The Foreseeable Future for Water Planning Andrew James Segrave,2014-09-14 People and societies conceptualise and experience time in fundamentally different ways This basic aspect of perception significantly influences the way we frame problems and conceive solutions This book shows how time perspectives differ across national cultures and across professional roles It shows how these differences generate ambiguity when it comes to defining problems and devising solutions in the water sector This is especially important when dealing with problems such as Sustainable Water Resources Management and Climate Change that involve culturally and professionally diverse stakeholders Response strategies to such problems inherently require concerted action because of the large spatial and temporal scale on which they take place and to minimise the occurrence of conflicting interventions This disparity between diverse problem perceptions and the need for collective understanding and united action is increasingly recognised as an important concern in the field of water resource management The conclusions are important because the time horizons considered in planning and setting research agendas influence what problems are perceived what questions are asked and what solutions are sought In general more time needs to be invested in framing problems This is particularly important for participatory planning and transdisciplinary research where the diversity in Motivational Space is greatest It is recommended that Motivational Space be collectively and explicitly framed from the outset of all planning projects especially in terms of Temporal Extent When it comes to setting research agendas it is important to match the Motivational Space of those who prioritize the questions with the goal of the research programme Author Andrew James Segrave KWR Watercycle Research Institute Utrecht The Netherlands   Encyclopedia of U.S. Campaigns, Elections, and Electoral Behavior Kenneth F.
