Servicelearning In Higher Education Critical Issues And Directions:

Service-Learning in Higher Education in Africa Titus O. Pachon, 2019-01-15 This book will help stakeholders in higher education appreciate service learning as an innovative and active approach with the potential to enrich students' learning experiences while adding value to the service mission of higher education. The approach not only links academic learning to everyday life but also exposes students to a variety of opportunities for the development of life and career skills. The book will serve to bring university teaching out of the clouds and restore in students' minds the connection between what they are learning and the people their education is meant to help. The approach advocated here will serve to have a long term and salutary effect on the whole nature of university learning. When students are given the opportunity to participate actively in the learning process which includes civic engagement they will be able to learn not only theoretically but also experientially through practice as experience is generally one of the best ways to learn. Service-Learning in Higher Education D.

Butin, 2005-07-14 Advocates have positioned service learning as a real world real time opportunity for students to encounter academic knowledge in a meaningful and relevant manner. Service learning in higher education settings offers a powerful alternative to traditional models of teaching and learning. Students are encouraged to develop links to local institutions, volunteer their time, and create a special bond between the university and the community in which they live. Service learning has become a very popular alternative to standard courses in higher education and is gaining significant popularity. This book takes a serious look at the unintended consequences and alternative conceptualizations of this mode of learning and explores what it could offer us in the future. Service Learning in Higher Education, Service-Learning Essentials Barbara theory and invite critical practice It is an international trend that higher education institutions and agencies are encouraging and promoting community engagement At the same time there is recognition of a lack of consistent definitions and understandings of what it is they are promoting As a counterweight to the dominance of pragmatic and technical discussions in the literature on engaged scholarship the chapters in this book shift the discourse to ask foundational questions that emphasize the political nature of engagement Recognizing that acts of engagement are never neutral the authors in this book explore how engaged scholarship requires decision making that is inherently grounded in values beliefs and interpretations of what is and what ought to be Alongside complex global and local social movements rising to address issues for example climate change or the global financial collapse and the uneven consequences of these globalized problems we see corresponding concerns expressed about the limited participation by excluded silenced and invisibilized people throughout the world How can engaged scholarship be mobilized and who will it serve within such contexts With contributions covering such diverse topics as a non binary approach to engagement citizenship of knowledge university contexts and corporatization stranger pedagogies and anti foundational approaches to service learning contemporary revolutionary movements in the Arab world and transforming higher education through Africanist onto epistemologies this volume is poised to open the door to a deeper understanding of engaged scholarship
