Feminist Community Research Gillian Creese, Wendy Frisby, 2011-10-20 Feminist community research is a collaborative policy oriented methodology that holds the promise of empowering the disadvantaged and building a more just society But in the absence of critical analysis and the responsible use of power this approach can lead to naive or even harmful practices Grounded as they are in fieldwork these interdisciplinary case studies acknowledge the real methodological and ethical issues that researchers can encounter as they negotiate contested research relationships The authors discuss the strategies successful and unsuccessful that they have employed to overcome these challenges The authors collective experiences working with diverse groups from immigrant and Aboriginal women in Vancouver to poverty reduction practitioners in Vietnam reveal that truly equitable research projects require that we question core concepts and address crucial issues such as the promises and limits of reflexivity the politics of place time and resources ethical dilemmas and emotional responses and the way issues of social justice policy and social change are embedded in research

Community Development and Public Administration Theory Ashley E. Nickels, Jason D. Rivera, 2018-04-17 The concept of community development is often misunderstood holding different meanings across different academic disciplines Moreover the concept of community development has been historically abstracted not only in the way the concept has been conceptualized in academic studies but also by the way in which practitioners use the term in the vernacular Departing from traditional definitions of community development this volume applies the New Public Service NPS perspective of Public Administration to community development to illustrate how public administrators and public managers can engage in community development planning and implementation that results in more equitable and sustainable long term outcomes This book will be of interest to practitioners and researchers in public administration management public administration theory community development economic development urban sociology urban politics and urban planning

Reviewing Qualitative Research in the Social Sciences Audrey Trainor, Elizabeth Graue, 2013 Foundational characteristics of qualitative research include flexibility variation in application critique and innovation all of which derive from its subjective roots in interpretivism and constructivism While the scholars who design qualitative research projects envision these qualities as strengths such a breadth of practices and the assumptions that undergird them may present challenges during the peer review process As a result those who review and consume qualitative research often have important and difficult to answer questions about the project s design strategies tools and analysis with few guidelines for gauging the merit of the work The mission of this book is to provide a useful guide for researchers reviewers and consumers who are charged with judging the quality of qualitative studies In order to embrace the challenges and controversies that accompany this goal the editors have solicited experts representing multiple disciplines and methods of qualitative inquiry Their contributions represent the rich diversity in the field while simultaneously producing a pragmatic and useful guide While it is neither possible nor desirable to compartmentalize qualitative approaches and issues into neatly organized categories the construct of method has been chosen as a common organizing device The introductory chapter explains the need for such a book and underscores the foundational strengths of qualitative research flexibility variation critique and innovation The remaining chapters review the principal approaches to qualitative research with care taken not to standardize rigidly define or oversimplify any approach For ease of use all methodological chapters are organized around the following elements of inquiry which reviewers tend to examine definition sampling data collection data analysis representation and congruency
