Management Control Systems and

Cross-Cultural Research Michael Hanzlick, 2015-01-31 A fundamental challenge that management faces in the twenty first century is how to exercise adequate control i.e. how to guide and direct the behaviour of their subordinates With increasing globalisation firms witness a cross cultural impact too Of particular interest is the question of whether to use the standardized form of control similar to the home base of firms or whether to adapt their control practices to the local specificities Given the meagre state of the literature in management control with a cross cultural emphasis this study addresses a real world problem namely the question whether management control practices are configured similarly or differently across cultures Relying on a generalized industry sample across four countries Belgium Canada Germany and Poland this study sought to shed light on one of the more intriguing questions does culture matter for specific control areas in particular for performance measurement performance evaluation and reward systems The theoretical foundations are grounded in the cultural framework of the GLOBE project accompanied by thoughts of new institutionalism stakeholder theory and contingency thoughts Hypotheses are tested by mean comparisons ANOVA ANCOVA The empirical findings highlight cultural differences for a broader set of control practices and deliver new insights into the intersection of culture and management control This dissertation crafts a novel topic with high relevance for both researchers and practitioners The study demonstrates areas for which management control practices should be adapted to the local needs and areas for which those practices could be harmonized in the whole company This monograph stresses some areas in which future empirical cross cultural research can benefit and some areas where conceptual thoughts could be advanced Pandemic Economics

Estimating Economic Values for Nature Vincent Kerry Smith, 1996-06 Estimating Economic Values for Nature presents in one volume a collection of V Kerry Smith's papers prepared over 25 years dealing with the theory and practice of non market valuation for environmental resources Taken together the papers explore the conceptual basis the implementation process and empirical performance of all available methods of measuring economic values for the services of nature and how these values are constructed from people's choices. The issues discussed in this volume include travel cost recreation demand averting behaviour household production hedonic property value hedonic wage and contingent valuation methods. Handbook of Research in Education Finance and Policy Helen F. Ladd, Edward B. Fiske, 2008. Sponsored by the Association for Education Finance and Policy (AEFP), this groundbreaking new handbook assembles in one place the existing research-based knowledge in education finance and policy, thereby helping to define this evolving field of research and practice. It provides a readily available resource for anyone seriously involved in education finance and policy in the United States and around the world. The Handbook traces the evolution of the field from its initial focus on school inputs and the revenue sources used to finance these inputs to a focus on educational outcomes and the larger policies used to achieve them. It shows how the current decision-making context in school finance inevitably interacts with those of governance, accountability, equity, privatization, and other areas of education policy. Because a full understanding of the important contemporary issues requires input from a variety of perspectives, the Handbook draws on contributors from a variety of disciplines. While many of the chapters cover complex state-of-the-art empirical research, the authors explain key concepts in language that non-specialists can understand.

Chapters cover the scientific method, sampling, validity, reliability, and ethical concerns along with quantitative and qualitative methods. LIS students and professionals will consult this text not only for instruction on conducting research but also for guidance in critically reading and evaluating research publications, proposals, and reports. As in the previous edition, discipline experts provide advice, tips, and strategies for completing research projects, dissertations, and theses, writing grants, overcoming writer's block, collaborating with colleagues, and working with outside consultants. Journal and book editors discuss how to publish and identify best practices and understudied topics as well as what they look for in submissions.
