Macrae, Richard Kenneth Robinson, Michèle J. Sadler, 1993 Economic Analysis of Supply and Demand for Food Up to 2030 Audun Lem, Trond Bjørndal, Alena Lappo, 2014 With the worlds population expected to reach 8 2 billion people by 2030 and with 842 million people estimated as having been undernourished in the period 2011 13 food supply will present a growing challenge in the next two decades With increases in income along with demographic changes related to family size population ageing and urbanization and consumer trends such as concerns for healthy eating and sustainable production there will be great shifts in demand and major changes in the composition of demand This will in turn have an impact on food supply which will need to both increase and become more efficient if it is to grow within the constraints presented by the availability of natural resources and existing technology This publication presents projections of future food supply up to 2030 building on existing analyses but also providing more economic perspectives on the future evolution of food production Oceanic Abstracts with Indexes ,1974 Fishing News International ,1967 Later Mesolithic Fishing Strategies and Practices in Denmark David J. Quill Smart, 2003 This book examines the strategies and practices involved in fishing during the Mesolithic in Denmark Historical information is collated and the problem of the chronology overcome by modern calibration methods The material evidence in particular shells fish bones and fish catching apparatus is re examined together with ethnographic evidence and modern fishing practices A range of fish species has now been identified The eel is examined in detail as the evidence clearly indicates its importance An intimate knowledge of this and other fish clarifies the strategies and practices that took place to catch them Current knowledge and species availability indicates little has changed over the last six millennia Historically bait has been little discussed The subject is explored here suggesting examples and uses Finally the arrival of agriculture in Denmark is discussed and it is argued that fishing practices continued long after what has been previously described as the change to farming Oceanic Abstracts ,1997 Australian Journal of Marine and Freshwater Research ,1975
