Preferential Option For The Poor:

The Preferential Option for the Poor beyond Theology Daniel G. Groody, Gustavo A. Gutiérrez, 2016-10-15 Since the 1973 publication of Gustavo Gutiérrez's groundbreaking work A Theology of Liberation liberation theology's central premise of the preferential option for the poor has become one of the most important yet controversial theological themes of the twentieth century. As the situation for many of the world's poor worsens it becomes ever more important to ensure that the option for the poor remains not only a vibrant theological concept but also a practical framework for living out the gift and challenge of Christian faith. The Preferential Option for the Poor beyond Theology draws on a diverse group of contributors to explore how disciplines as varied as law, economics, politics, the environment, science, liberal arts, film, and education can help us understand putting a commitment to the option for the poor into practice. The central focus of the book revolves around the question: How can one live a Christian life in a world of destitution? The contributors address the theological concept of the option for the poor as well as the ways it can shape our social, economic, political, educational, and environmental approaches to poverty. Their creative examples serve as an inspiration to all those who are seeking to put their talents at the service of human need and the building of a more just and humane world.

The Formulation and Development of the Preferential Option for the Poor in Catholic Social Teaching Brendan Connell, 2020 The Preferential Option for the Poor is an official teaching of the Catholic Church and as such forms part of the lexicon of Catholic Social Teaching. This thesis pays homage to the teachings' theological and pastoral heritage but then focuses on the Church's historical effectiveness to disseminate the teaching throughout the Catholic world.

A Reader in Latina Feminist Theology Daisy L. Machado, 2002-04-15 Speaking for the growing community of Latina feminist theologians, the editors of this volume write: With the emergence and growth of the feminist theologies of liberation we no longer wait for others to define or validate our experience of life and faith. We want to express in our own words our plural ways of experiencing God and our plural ways of living our faith. And these ways have a liberative tone. With twelve original essays by emerging and established Latina feminist theologians, this first of its kind volume adds the perspectives, realities, struggles, and spiritualities of U.S. Latinas to the larger feminist theological discourse. The editors have gathered writings from both Roman Catholics and Protestants and from various Latino/a communities. The writers address a wide array of theological concerns: popular religion, denominational presence and attraction, methodology, lived experience, analysis of nationhood, and interpretations of life lived on a border that is not only geographic but also racial, gendered, linguistic, and religious.

Preferential Option for the Poor Usccb, 1996-12 Book 4 in the Faith Sharing series leads small groups through an examination of the theme in Catholic social teaching centering on preferential options for and with the poor.

Pathologies of Power Paul Farmer, 2004-11-22 Pathologies of Power uses harrowing stories of illness, life, and death in extreme situations to interrogate our understanding of human rights. Paul Farmer, a physician and anthropologist with twenty years of experience studying diseases in Haiti, Peru, and Russia, argues that promoting the social and economic rights of the world's poor is the most important human rights struggle of our times. A thoughtful memoir with passionate eyewitness accounts from the prisons of Russia and the beleaguered villages of Haiti and Chiapas, this book links the lived experiences of individual victims to a broader analysis of structural violence. Farmer challenges conventional thinking within human rights circles and exposes the relationships between political and economic injustice on one hand and the suffering and illness of the powerless on the other. Farmer shows that the same social forces that give rise to epidemic diseases such as HIV and tuberculosis also sculpt risk for human rights violations. He illustrates the ways that racism and gender inequality in the United States are mirrored in pathology, plague, disease, and death. Yet this doctor's autobiography is far from a hopeless inventory of human suffering. Farmer's disturbing examples are linked to a guarded optimism that new medical and social technologies will develop in tandem with a more informed sense of social justice. Otherwise, he concludes, we will be guilty of managing social inequality rather than addressing structural violence. Farmer's urgent plea to think about human rights in the context of global public health and to consider critical issues of quality and access for the world's poor should be of fundamental concern to pathologists, medical students, and humanitarians in a world characterized by the bizarre proximity of surfeit and suffering.

The Preferential Option for the Poor Rohan Michael Curnow, 2012

Lonergan scholar Frederick Crowe once noted that the topic of Bernard Lonergan and liberation theology can seem like Melchizedek: that is, without either contextual father or mother. The same, of course, goes for Lonergan and the Preferential Option for the Poor. This book argues that Lonergan's work offers a highly cogent and powerful method for integrating the Option for the Poor into systematic theology.

An Immigration of Theology Simon C. Kim, 2012-05-03

The theological reflections of Virgilio Elizondo and Gustavo Gutiérrez are examples of the ecclesial fruitfulness of the second half of the twentieth century. Following the directives of Pope John XXIII and the Second Vatican Council, Elizondo and Gutiérrez present the Gospel message in relevant terms to their own people by engaging the world as the Church of the poor. Inspired by this moment in Church history while at the same time recognizing the plight of their people in their poor and marginal existence, Elizondo and Gutiérrez discovered a new way of doing theology by asking a specific set of questions based on their local context. By investigating where God is present in the border crossings of the southwestern United States and the poorest of the poor in Latin America both theologians have uncovered a hermeneutical lens in rereading Scripture and deepening our understanding of ecclesial tradition Elizondo's mestizaje and Gutierrez's preferential option for the poor arose out of a theology of context a theological method that takes seriously the contextual circumstances of their locale By utilizing the common loci theologici of Scripture and tradition in conjunction with context and their own experience Elizondo and Gutierrez illustrate through their theologies how every group must embrace their own unique theological reflection

The Option for the Poor in Christian Theology Daniel G. Groody, 2007-04-01 Since the publication of Gustavo Gutierrez's 1973 groundbreaking work A Theology of Liberation much has been written on liberation theology and its central premise of the preferential option for the poor Arguably this has been one of the most important yet controversial theological themes of the twentieth century As globalization creates greater gaps between the rich and the poor and as the situation for many of the world's poor worsens there is an ever greater need to understand the gift and challenge of Christian faith from the context of the poor and marginalized of our society This volume draws on the thought of leading international scholars and explores how the Christian tradition can help us understand the theological foundations for the option for the poor The central focus of the book revolves around the question How can one live a Christian life in a world of destitution The contributors are concerned not only with a social economic or political understanding of poverty but above all with the option for the poor as a theological concept While these essays are rooted in a solid grounding of our present reality they look to the past to understand some of the central truths of Christian faith and to the future as a source of Christian hope Following Gustavo Gutierrez's essay on the multidimensionality of poverty Elsa Tamez Hugh Page Jr Brian Daley and Jon Sobrino identify a central theological premise poverty is contrary to the will of God Drawing on scripture the writings of the early fathers the witness of Christian martyrs and contemporary theological reflection they argue that poverty represents the greatest challenge to Christian faith and discipleship David Tracy and J Matthew Ashley carry their reflection forward by examining the option for the poor in light of apocalyptic thought Virgilio Elizondo Patrick Kalilombe Mar a Pilar Aquino M Shawn Copeland and Mary Catherine Hilkert examine the challenges of poverty with respect to culture Africa race and gender Casiano Floristan and Luis Maldonado explore the relationship between poverty sacramentality and popular religiosity The final two essays by Aloysius Pieris and Michael Signer consider the option for the poor in relationship to other major world religions particularly an Asian theology of religions and the meaning of care for the poor within Judaism

The Preferential Option for the Poor Richard John Neuhaus, 1988

Salvation as Praxis Wayne Morris, 2013-12-19 Will people of other faiths be saved and to what extent should the response to this question shape Christian engagements with people of other faiths Historically the predominant answer to these questions has been that the person of another faith will not be saved and is therefore in need of conversion to Christianity for their salvation to be possible Consequently it has been understood to be the obligation of Christian persons to convert people of other faiths More recent theologies of religions for the past half century and more have sought to reconsider these approaches to soteriology This has sometimes led to a reaffirmation of the status quo and at other times to an alternative soteriological understanding In seeking to articulate soteriologies that make logical and doctrinal sense too often these new approaches to salvation and people of other faiths have paid little attention to questions of practice Drawing on alternative understandings of soteriology as deification healing and liberation each perspective having ancient roots in the Christian tradition it is argued that salvation can be understood as form of concrete earthly practice Understood in this way this book considers how these alternative theologies of salvation might shape Christian practices in a way that departs from a history in which the person of another faith has been perceived as a threat to Christianity and therefore in need of conversion Further it asks how the complex multi faith world of the twenty first century might better inform and shape the way in which Christian theologies frame soteriological understandings

Soens,2000 These essays by prominent ethicists social philosophers theologians and leaders of nonprofit institutions grapple with the many thorny issues surrounding philanthropy and voluntarism An outgrowth of two conferences sponsored by the Maguire Center at SMU in 1996 97 the essays examine the common and conflicting interests of donors boards staffs and beneficiaries the interface of voluntary communities with larger entities such as government and the precarious balancing act between charity solidarity and responsibility Preferential Option for the Poor in a First World Setting David P.
