traditional dichotomy between macro structures and micro processes of interaction the book demonstrates that the EU's large scale community depends for its existence on practical instantiations of community building in distinct communities of practice Using the case of an EU diplomatic community of practice in Kyiv Ukraine takes these questions to the EU's margins highlighting that the boundaries of community are key sites in which community materialises The in depth case study identifies diplomats boundary work as the constitutive rule that makes the local community of practice cohere and create feelings of belonging to the large scale polity of the EU This book will be of interest to researchers of European studies as well as to those working on global cooperation and international relations more broadly The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY 4.0 license
