Schiele, Michel Claessens, Shunke Shi, 2012-04-02 This volume is aimed at all those who wonder about the mechanisms and effects of the disclosure of knowledge Whether they have a professional interest in understanding these processes generally or they wish to conduct targeted investigations in the PCST field it will be useful to anyone involved in science communication including researchers academics students journalists science museum staff scientists high public profiles and information officers in scientific institutions      Science Communication and Public Engagement Denisse

Vásquez-Guevara, 2023-05-31 This book offers a historical description of science communication and addresses the gaps in the literature with the correspondent counterproposals to address these issues to promote audiences engagement with science Denisse V squez Guevara offers practical guidelines to develop and implement effective science communication Contributors present several communication theories research and participatory intervention methodologies data collection and facilitation tools contrasted with scientific evidence and case studies to illustrate how to carry out engaging initiatives that unite researchers and people around collaboration and interest in scientific research Scholars of science communication participatory action research and decolonial methodologies will find this book of particular interest      Communicating Science in Social Contexts Donghong Cheng, Michel Claessens, Nicholas R. J. Gascoigne, Jenni Metcalfe, Bernard Schiele, Shunke Shi, 2008-07-15 Science communication as a multidisciplinary field has developed remarkably in recent years It is now a distinct and exceedingly dynamic science that melds theoretical approaches with practical experience Formerly well established theoretical models now seem out of step with the social reality of the sciences and the previously clear cut delineations and interacting domains between cultural fields have blurred Communicating Science in Social Contexts examines that shift which itself depicts a profound recomposition of knowledge fields activities and dissemination practices and the value accorded to science and technology Communicating Science in Social Contexts is the product of long term effort that would not have been possible without the research and expertise of the Public Communication of Science and Technology PCST Network and the editors For nearly 20 years this informal international network has been organizing events and forums for discussion of the public communication of science      Science Communication and Development J V Vilanilam, 1993-04 The author assesses science and technology in India and concludes that India s planners and scientists perpetuate the colonial tradition of restricting the benefits of science and technology to a small elite ignoring historical and contemporary reality in their desire to eschew indigenous scientific traditions As a means of achieving a meaningful technological revolution Vilanilam proposes a marriage of communication and development which builds upwards from the grass roots and makes use of mass participation in folk and traditional media      Communicating Science Toss

Gascoigne, Bernard Schiele, Joan Leach, Michelle Riedlinger, Luisa Massarani, Bruce V. Lewenstein, Peter Broks, 2020-09-14

Modern science communication has emerged in the twentieth century as a field of study a body of practice and a profession and it is a practice with deep historical roots We have seen the birth of interactive science centres the first university actions in teaching and conducting research and a sharp growth in employment of science communicators This collection charts the emergence of modern science communication across the world This is the first volume to map investment around the globe in science centres university courses and research publications and conferences as well as tell the national stories of science communication How did it all begin How has development varied from one country to another What motivated governments institutions and people to see science communication as an answer to questions of the social place of science Communicating Science describes the pathways followed by 39 different countries All continents and many cultures are represented For some countries this is the first time that their science communication story has been told      Science Communication

Massimiano Bucchi, Brian Trench, 2025-04-02 Science Communication The Basics is an accessible yet critical introduction to science communication which is viewed as the social conversation around science It addresses why science communication matters examines the evolution of theories and practices and explains concepts myths misunderstandings and challenges Massimiano Bucchi and Brian Trench navigate the foundations and key themes of science communication through numerous vignettes examples cases and arguments They provide annotated recommended reading and a Lexicon summarising the understandings and uses of key terms in the field Revealing science communication as a collective process and part of daily life topics covered include science communication as part of culture and our understanding of ourselves and the world the history of science communication and the development of modern science policy and theoretical approaches the growth of professional practice formal education and research in the field evolving platforms for science communication and quality trust and ethical awareness in science communication Science Communication The Basics is designed to be a concise primer and essential reading for newcomers to the field including staff in research and policy institutions students of the natural human and social sciences and general readers curious about the ways science is presented and perceived in society Science Communication The Basics is the third in a triptych of works on science communication from the two authors The other two works are the Routledge Handbook of Public Communication of Science and Technology first published in 2008 and now in its third edition 2021 and a four volume anthology of readings The Public Communication of Science 2016 also published by Routledge      Science Journalism in the Arab World Abdullah Alhuntushi, Jairo Lugo-Ocando, 2023-01-01 This book examines the main issues and challenges that science journalism faces in the MENA region while analyzing how journalists in these countries cover science and engage with scientists Most countries in the Middle East and North Africa region have set an ambitious goal for 2030 to transform their societies and become knowledge economies This means modernizing institutions and encouraging people to embrace Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics as part of their daily lives This books claims that the main vehicle to achieve this goal is science news reporting as it continues to be the main platform to disseminate scientific knowledge to the general public Simultaneously it is also poorly equipped to achieve this task Interviewing dozens of journalists the authors looked at specific areas such as the gender divide and its effects on science news reporting as well as the role of religion and culture in shaping journalism as a political institution The authors conclude that traditional normative assumptions as to why science reporting does not live up to expectations need to be reviewed in light of other more structural problems such as lack of skills and specialization in science communication in the region In so doing the book sets out to understand the past present and future of science news in one of the most challenging regions in the world for journalists
