Interreligious Curriculum for Peace Education in Nigeria Isaiah Ekundayo Dada, 2019-04-18 Nigeria a country under a military regime for several years transitioned to a civilian regime in May 1999 Since this change violent conflicts between Christians and Muslims have continued to erupt They constitute one of the gravest dangers facing Nigeria a country with a population of 189 million people What have Nigerian religious leaders done about this situation especially in educational circles Have they received formal educational training to understand the causes of this violence and especially how to provide alternatives for more peaceful relations within Nigeria Does the current educational system in Nigeria provide the main ingredients for the promotion of a culture of peace The absence and neglect of interreligious peace education as part of a peace education core program and the lack of an interreligious curriculum for peace education in the training of religious leaders are the two problems contributing towards the lack of effectiveness of religious leaders in promoting less violent and more peaceful living The solution to the problem is proposed in this book entitled Interreligious Curriculum for Peace Education in Nigeria The book develops a one year curriculum building on Yoruba Islamic Christian conceptions of peace and teaches how to create safe caring spiritual peaceful and successful interfaith relationships between all Nigerian religious communities In the long term the book helps to educate religious leaders to contribute in themselves and with the help of their respective religious communities to reducing the growing religious violence in Nigeria

Peace Education Evaluation Celina Del Felice, Aaron Karako, Andria Wisler, 2015-05-01 Practice and research of peace education has grown in the recent years as shown by a steadily increasing number of publications programs events and funding mechanisms The oft cited point of departure for the peace education community is the belief in education as a valuable tool for decreasing the use of violence in conflict and for building cultures of positive peace hallmarked by just and equitable structures Educators and organizations implementing peace education activities and programming however often lack the tools and capacities for evaluation and thus pay scant regard to this step in program management Reasons for this inattention are related to the perceived urgency to prioritize new and more action in the context of scarce financial and human resources notwithstanding violence or conflict the lack of skills and time to indulge in a thorough evaluative strategy and the absence of institutional incentives and support Evaluation is often demand driven by donors who emphasize accounting given the current context of international development assistance and budget cuts Program evaluation is considered an added burden to already over tasked programmers who are unaware of the incentives and of assessment techniques Peace education practitioners are typically faced with forcing evaluation frameworks techniques and norms standardized for traditional education programs and venues Together these conditions create an unfavorable environment in which evaluation becomes under valued de prioritized and mythologized for its laboriousness This volume serves three inter related objectives First it offers a critical reflection on theoretical and methodological issues regarding evaluation applied to peace education interventions and programming The overarching questions of the nature of peace and the principles guiding peace education as well as governing theories and assumptions of change transformation and complexity are explored Second the volume investigates existing quantitative qualitative and mixed methods evaluation practices of peace educators in order to identify what needs related to evaluation persist among practitioners Promising practices are presented from peace education programming in different settings formal and non formal education within various groups e g children youth police journalists and among diverse cultural contexts Finally the volume proposes ideas of evaluation novel techniques for experimentation and creative adaptation of tools from related fields in order to offer pragmatic and philosophical substance to peace educators next moves and inspire the agenda for continued exploration and innovation The authors come from variety of fields including education peace and conflict studies educational evaluation development studies comparative education economics and psychology Fostering Change in Institutions, Environments, and People David C.
