More than Fighting for Peace? David Curran, 2016-11-25 This book provides a contemporary account of the linkages between the academic field of conflict resolution and the practice of military peacekeeping through the lens of pre deployment training for military personnel about to embark on UN peacekeeping operations Military personnel serving on United Nations peacekeeping operations are deployed into highly challenging post conflict environments where the likelihood of violence remains high Moreover these personnel are deployed part of a wider peace process and are thus situated as an anchor point in a transition from war to peace This dimension of their work therefore means that a range of skills and techniques are relied upon which come not from traditional military training but from other non traditional fields It is into this gap where the academic field of conflict resolution has made a valuable contribution to understanding international peacekeeping Since the 1970 s studies have sought to understand international peacekeeping as a necessary stage in conflict de escalation and ultimately transformation From this there is a history of engagement including studies which seek to understand the skills peacekeepers may need to assist them in their day to day activities and the role that international peacekeeping plays in wider projects of conflict transformation Towards a Theory of United Nations Peacekeeping A.B. Fetherston, 1994-12-13 At a time when peacekeepers are struggling to fulfil increasingly demanding mandates and UN peacekeeping is in danger of losing the distinct character that won it the 1988 Nobel Peace Prize this important book argues for a clear theoretical redefinition within a conflict resolution framework and examines the practical implications for training This is a valuable and original contribution to the peacekeeping literature Dr Oliver Ramsbotham Department of Peace Studies University of Bradford Both for the blue helmets on the ground and for the diplomats at UN headquarters conflict resolution skills are essential for conducting peacekeeping operations Betts Fetherstone s excellent study points the way forward to a synthesis between conflict management and peacekeeping Hugh Miall Research Fellow European Programme Royal Institute of International Affairs The prevailing over taxed ad hoc system of peacekeeping does not meet the growing demands posed by the post Cold War world This volume argues that peacekeeping needs to be placed on firm conceptual footing directly congruent with its peaceful third party role The implications of this conceptualisation of peacekeeping for practice are then discussed Training is cited as a key means of translating conceptual understanding into practice Without this foundation work UN has little chance of changing its existing and largely ineffective system of conflict management At a time when peacekeepers are struggling to fulfil increasingly demanding mandates and UN peacekeeping is in danger of losing the distinct character that won it the 1988 Nobel Peace Prize this important book argues for a clear theoretical redefinition within a conflict resolution framework and examines the practical implications for training This is a valuable and original contribution to the peacekeeping literature
