Russia in the Early Modern World Donald Ostrowski, 2022-01-25 A fundamental problem in studying early modern Russian history is determining Russia's historical development in relationship to the rest of the world The focus throughout this book is on the continuity of Russian policies during the early modern period 1450 1800 and that those policies coincided with those of other successful contemporary Eurasian polities The continuities occurred in the midst of constant change but neither one nor the other continuities or changes alone can account for Russia's success Instead Russian rulers from Ivan III to Catherine II with their hub advisors managed to sustain a balance between the two During the early modern period these Russian rulers invited into the country foreign experts to facilitate the transfer of technology and know how mostly from Europe but also from Asia In this respect they were willing to look abroad for solutions to domestic problems Russia looked westward for military weaponry and techniques at the same time it was expanding eastward into the Eurasian heartland The ruling elite and by extension the entire ruling class worked in cooperation with the ruler to implement policies The Church played an active role in supporting the government and in seeking to eliminate opposition to the government

Famine in Peasant Societies Ronald E. Seavoy, 1986-06-24 In this controversial study Seavoy offers a new approach to the problem of periodic peacetime famine based on the actual behavior of peasants He maintains that it is possible to increase per capita food production without massive and inappropriate technological inputs Seavoy shifts the focus from modern development economics to a cultural and historical analysis of subsistence agriculture in Western Europe England and Ireland Indonesia and India From his survey of peasant civilization practices in these countries he generalizes on the social values that create what he terms the subsistence compromise In all of the ages and culture Seavoy finds a consistent social organization of agriculture that produces identical results seasonal hunger in poor crop years and famine conditions in consecutive poor crop years He argues that economic policies have failed to increase per capita food production because economists and government planners try to apply market oriented policies to populations that are not commercially motivated Once they understand the subsistence compromise policy makers can take appropriate political action Peasant Studies ,1975
