Knowledge-Driven Corporation George B. Graen, Joan A. Graen, 2008-10-01 This book is about preparing our thinking, feeling, and acting for the rapidly expanding knowledge era. We discuss the following queries in the chapters. We begin with a discussion of what an appropriate knowledge-driven corporation KDC is. Next, we explore a number of design issues about this transformed charter company and present two examples of new knowledge-driven corporations that are described in strategic and tactical terms. At this point, the questions of management and leadership, selection, and development for the KDC are discussed in the next two chapters. These are followed by two chapters discussing the political side of human KDC in terms of fit or no fit. Following this discussion of our frail interpersonal habits, project teams research shows how an orderly process of team leadership development unfolds over the project life cycle. Finally, the last chapter discusses where we are concerning emergent response leadership in building real knowledge-driven corporations. This book is dedicated to survival of the best of the best of our corporations in the knowledge era through complex creative destruction.

Writing in an Electronic World Beth E. Kolko, Alison E. Regan, Susan Romano, 2001 We live, work, and write in an electronic connected world. Writing in an Electronic World is the solution for writing educators who need a guide to how new technologies can best affect both writing instruction and writing communities. Designed for both new users of technology and early adopters, the book is a rigorous examination of writing and technologies that provides a thoughtful and measured pedagogy and will help students write effective prose. By combining traditional rhetorical instruction with critical assessments of new opportunities created by the Internet, Writing in an Electronic World prepares students for the real experiences and demands of the evolving literate world.
