Thorps in a Changing Landscape Paul Cullen, Richard Jones, David N. Parsons, 2011 The authors consider the siting of thorps and throps in relation to the landscape and to soil types in particular Amply demonstrating the value of an interdisciplinary approach to the study of early medieval settlement in England the authors are able to draw important conclusions about the changes in farming that swept the country during this period and by association the process of village nucleation By examining both the chronology of place names in thorp and throp and their qualifying elements notably the presence or absence of personal names it appears possible to chart both the speed at which arable enterprises farmed in severalty converted to communal cultivation as well as the direction in which the changes spread There is a sense of real excitement as many fresh insights are revealed in the course of the book P 4 of cover
