Passions And Constraints On The Theory Of Liberal Democracy:

Passions and Constraint Stephen Holmes,1995-06 Holmes argues that the aspirations of liberal democracy including individual liberty the equal dignity of citizens and a tolerance for diversity are best understood in relation to two central themes of classical liberal theory the psychological motivations of individuals and the necessary constraints on individual passions provided by robust institutions Paradoxically Holmes argues such institutional restraints serve to enable rather than limit or dilute effective democracy

The Moralization of the Markets Christoph Henning,2017-07-12 Nothing affects the modern economy and society more than decisions made in the market place especially but not only decisions made by consumers Although it is not startling to suggest that decisions made in production are affected by choices consumers make consumers have long been viewed not only by academic economists as individual isolated rational actors that make or refrain from purchases purely on the basis of narrow financial considerations Markets are not and never were morally neutral Market relations have always had an often taken for granted moral underpinning The moralization of the markets refers to the dissolution and replacement of the conventional moral underpinnings of market conduct for example in the music market financial markets and corporate governance It further implies not only the heightened importance of new ethical precepts but the significant change in the role of moral ideals in market behavior These profound transformations of economic conduct are accompanied and co determined by societal conflicts The moralization of markets represents thus a new stage in the social evolution of markets The book is divided into four parts in which the twelve chapters written by contributors from different social science disciplines deal with the context of the moralization of the markets the major social institutions and present case studies that examine European and American attitudes and behavior towards tobacco and GMO expansion of the private and ethics in business and how workers respond to the new corporate norms This volume will be of interest to sociologists economists social scientists and the general consumer alike

Cuba and the Politics of Passion Damián J. Fernández,2010-01-01 Cuban politics has long been remarkable for its passionate intensity and yet few scholars have explored the effect of emotions on political attitudes and action in Cuba or elsewhere This book thus offers an important new approach by bringing feelings back into the study of politics and showing how the politics of passion and affection have interacted to shape Cuban history throughout the twentieth century Damián Fernández characterizes the politics of passion as the pursuit of a moral absolute for the nation as a whole While such a pursuit rallied the Cuban people around charismatic leaders such as Fidel Castro Fernández finds that it also set the stage for disaffection and disconnection when the grand goal never fully materialized At the same time he reveals how the politics of affection taking care of family and friends outside the formal structures of government has paradoxically both undermined state regimes and helped them remain in power by creating an informal survival network that provides what the state cannot or will not

Deterrence Thom Brooks,2019-11-11 Deterrence is a theory which claims that punishment is justified through preventing future crimes and is one of the oldest and most powerful theories about punishment The argument that punishment ought to secure crime reduction occupies a central place in criminal justice policy and is the site for much debate Should the state deter offenders through the threat of punishment What available evidence is there about the effectiveness of deterrence Is deterrence even possible This volume brings together the leading work on deterrence from the dominant international figures in the field Deterrence is examined from various critical perspectives including its diversity relation with desert the relation of deterrence with incapacitation and prevention the role deterrence has played in debates over the death penalty and deterrence and corporate crime Berliner Debatte Initial ,2005 The Dark Side of the Left Richard J.
