Social Psychology and Evaluation Melvin M. Mark, Stewart Ian Donaldson, Bernadette Campbell, 2011-05-04 This compelling work brings together leading social psychologists and evaluators to explore the intersection of these two fields and how their theory practices and research findings can enhance each other An ideal professional reference or student text the book examines how social psychological knowledge can serve as the basis for theory driven evaluation facilitate more effective partnerships with stakeholders and policy makers and help evaluators ask more effective questions about behavior Also identified are ways in which real world evaluation findings can identify gaps in social psychological theory and test and improve the validity of social psychological findings for example in the areas of cooperation competition and intergroup relations The volume includes a useful glossary of both fields terms and offers practical suggestions for fostering cross fertilization in research graduate training and employment opportunities Each tightly edited chapter features an introduction and concluding reflection discussion questions from the editors

Evaluation Ethics for Best Practice Michael Morris, 2008 Focusing on ethical challenges in program evaluation this innovative book features six case study scenarios that end at a point where the evaluator faces a significant decision about how to proceed For each case two distinguished evaluators offer insights on the best course of action to choose and why What If boxes modify the details of the scenarios inviting readers to reflect on whether these changes alter the ethical implications of the case Six additional cases are presented with questions that guide readers to develop their own ethical analyses The book is organized to follow the progress of an evaluation from the entry contracting phase through the utilization of results

Conventional and Participatory Evaluation Lyn Paleo, 2005 Process Use in Theory, Research, and Practice J. Bradley Cousins, 2007 Conceptions of use are grounded within a common conception that use and influence can be traced to evaluation findings or to the knowledge outputs of evaluative activities Yet a qualitatively different type of use and impact began to emerge from evaluation practice and research on it. This other sort of consequence process use appeared to be attributable to something wholly independent of evaluation findings specifically the activities or processes of evaluation as opposed to its products or outputs. This volume is a multifaceted exploration of process use. It includes methodological, empirical, and conceptual inquiries as well as rich narrative forays into the domain of evaluation practice. Such a comprehensive approach serves to deepen understanding of process use as being pivotal in contemporary theory on evaluation consequences. This is the 116th volume of the Jossey-Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation, a publication of Jossey-Bass and the American Evaluation Association. The journal publishes empirical, methodological, and theoretical works on all aspects of evaluation.

Evaluation Roots Marvin C. Alkin, 2004-02-24 Concern for evaluation theoretical prescriptions emerged about 40 years ago, giving it a history that is both recent enough to be part of the living experience of many of today's theorists and old enough to afford an opportunity for an analysis of how the field has evolved over time. This book examines current evaluation theories and traces their evolution with the point of view that theories build upon theories and therefore evaluation theories are related to each other. Initially, all evaluation was derived from social science research methodology and accountability concerns. The way in which these evaluation roots grew to form a tree helps to provide a better understanding of evaluation theory. Thus, the book uses an evaluation theory tree as its central metaphor. The authors posit that evaluation theories can be classified by the extent to which they focus on methods, uses, or valuing. These three approaches form the major limbs of the tree. In addition to the authors' overview, which analyzes the evaluation theory tree and connections among theories, the book contains essays by most of the leading evaluation theorists. In these pieces, the evaluators comment on their own development and give their views of their placement upon the tree.

Fundamental Issues in Evaluation Nick L. Smith, Paul R. Brandon, 2007-10-25 Providing state-of-the-art perspectives on what evaluation is, its purpose, and how to ensure it is done well, this book brings together major evaluation researchers from a variety of social and behavioral science disciplines. Each chapter identifies a fundamental issue facing the field today, considers its implications for theory, method, practice, or the profession, and explores one or more approaches to dealing with the issue. Among the topics addressed are the nature of expertise in evaluation, how to build a better evidence base for evaluation, theory promoting cultural competence in evaluation, how to synthesize evaluation research findings, ways to involve stakeholders in decision making, and much more.

Co-Constructing a Contextually Responsive Evaluation Framework: The Talent Development Model of Reform Veronica G. Thomas, Floraline I. Stevens, 2004-05-05 This volume presents the Talent Development evaluation framework, an approach for evaluating urban school reform interventions deeply embedded in the work of the Howard University Center for Research on the Education of Students Placed At Risk (CRESPAR) and the Talent Development Model of School Reform. The CRESPAR Talent Development (TD) evaluation approach is rooted in several traditions of evaluation that intentionally seek engagement with contexts of practice. These traditions include responsive participatory empowerment and culturally competent approaches to evaluation The CRESPAR TD evaluation approach also takes up themes of inclusiveness and partnership advanced by the recent promotion of multiple methods in evaluation With these themes the TD evaluation approach is viably grounded in well accepted evaluation concepts and principles The approach further seeks to be practical useful formative and empowering for the many individuals served by TD evaluations and to give voice to persons whose perspectives are often ignored minimized or rejected in urban school settings Beyond such grounding and ambitions the CRESPAR TD evaluation framework seeks to re position evaluation in low income urban contexts as accountable not only for producing accurate and relevant information on the program being evaluated but also for enabling and contributing to the program s social betterment and social justice intentions This re positioning is effected primarily by a collaborative co constructionist model for evaluation in which CRESPAR program developers implementers and evaluators along with key program stakeholders partner together in envisioning implementing and evaluating programs that are responsive to and make cultural sense in the context at hand CRESPAR TD evaluators are contextually and culturally engaged and are responsible for this engagement This volume highlights the approach s five major themes engaging stakeholders co construction responsiveness cultural and contextual relevance and triangulation of perspectives

Critical Issues in STEM Evaluation Douglas Huffman, Frances Lawrenz, 2006-03-31 This volume of New Directions for Evaluation focuses on evaluation of science technology engineering and mathematics STEM programs with special emphasis on evaluation of STEM education initiatives STEM evaluation has always been important given the issues facing public schools and the economic and social considerations of STEM fields But because these fields today face a variety of concerns this discussion of STEM evaluation is particularly timely Evaluation advances may contribute to STEM fields by helping programs address the challenges they face This volume presents multiple viewpoints and state of the art examples and methodological approaches in the hope that its chapters will contribute to the understanding of STEM evaluation STEM education STEM education evaluation and evaluation in general Overall this volume of New Directions for Evaluation may help not only to move the field to consider new methods and methodologies for engaging in evaluation but also to reconsider ideas of what it means to engage in scientific evaluation

In Search of Cultural Competence in Evaluation Toward Principles and Practices Rodney Hopson, 2004-08-03 This volume focuses on culturally competent evaluation The chapters address a number of questions How does culture matter in evaluation theory and practice How does attention to cultural issues make for better evaluation practice How does attention to cultural issues make for better evaluation practice What is the value addedness of cultural competence in evaluation How do the complexities challenges and politics of diversity issue affect evaluation The first chapter is an overview of culture cultural competence and culturally competent evaluation the other chapters provide case studies on the implementation of culturally competent evaluation in a variety of settings and with several populations The volume contributors also present lessons learned from their experiences and recommendations for implementing cultural competent evaluations in general This volume is part of an important discussion of race culture and diversity in evaluation striving to shape and advance culturally competent evaluation and in tandem evaluation of culturally competent services This is the 102nd issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Evaluation International Perspectives on Evaluation Standards Craig Russon, Gabrielle Russon, 2005-02-11 Prior to 1995 there were fewer than half a dozen regional and national evaluation organizations around the world Today there are more than fifty attesting to a growing interest in the practice of program evaluation internationally Many of these new organizations have undertaken efforts to develop their own standards or to modify existing sets most typically the Program Evaluation Standards of the Joint Committee on Standards for Educational Evaluation for use in their own cultural context Following two introductory chapters one a conceptual overview and the second a history of the development and revisions of the Program Evaluation Standards this issue documents standards development efforts in three different settings Western Europe Africa and Australasia In addition because nongovernmental organizations and governments have entered the standard setting business other chapters describe standards development activities by the European Commission and CARE International The content points to the challenge of formalizing standards for program evaluation given cross cultural differences in values and to the continuing challenges related to implementing voluntary standards This is the 104th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Evaluation Global Advances in HIV / AIDS Monitoring and Evaluation Greet Peersman, Michel Carael, 2004-11-18 The focus of this issue is on global advances in conducting monitoring and evaluation M E of the global response to the HIV AIDS epidemic Only by implementing comprehensive and sustainable M E systems will we know how much progress we are making as nations and as a global community in combating this pandemic The chapters primarily focus on developing nations and are presented largely from the perspective of evaluators working for donors international agencies and national governments Although it is clear that a comprehensive M E system must eventually include both monitoring and evaluation the initial aim has been to establish a foundation derived largely from surveys and monitoring information To date much of the focus in M E has come from the global level because new global funding initiatives been launched and required rapid scale up and the development of technical guidance international standards and indicators for monitoring progress and determining success At the regional and country levels the challenge has been to implement national M E plans and systems within a context of overall low M E capacity and a range of M E needs Independent Evaluation Consulting Dawn Hanson Smart, 2006 This volume was inspired by stimulation and insights gained over the years from conversations among independent consultants at the annual conferences of the American Evaluation Association AEA conversations not just about evaluation projects and should serve as a springboard to ongoing discussion among evaluators Promoting the Use of Government Evaluations in Policymaking Rakesh Mohan, Kathleen Sullivan, 2007-03-05 Public policymaking is a high stakes business that affects millions of citizens and budgets ranging in the billions of tax dollars in even the smallest of states

Policymakers need timely evaluative information reported in understandable language by unbiased sources. It is this need that evaluators at all levels of government as well as those in many nonprofit organizations seek to meet as they conduct evaluations, analyze policy options, and recommend action on the part of policymakers. The authors contributing to this volume examine theoretical and practical approaches to designing evaluation projects in ways that promote the use of evaluation results in high stakes settings. The volume explores management of the politics of evaluation, which can be accomplished by considering the context in which an evaluation occurs and examining strategies for maximizing both evaluators' independence from and their responsiveness to key stakeholders. Unconventional approaches such as prospective evaluation and development of analytical tools for use by agency personnel are examined, as is promotion of evaluation use through a symbiotic relationship with performance measurement. The chapter authors discuss utilization strategies as applied to evaluations of public health education and corrections programs. The final chapter provides sage advice to evaluators on how to impact policy development.
