Limning the Jianghu Maranatha Christine Ivanova, 2009 中国江湖 , 2006 The Politics of Neighborhood Governance

Jianfeng Wang, 2005 For the nearly three decades of coexistence between economic liberalization and political authoritarianism China remains as an anomaly to the liberal mantra of our time This project explores a segment of the China Paradox the state society interaction channeled by the Residents Committee Being the largest urban neighborhood organization the committee deserves study because of its controversial status interlaid between ordinary residents it claims to represent and the authoritarian state The committee enters the discourse as a directly congruent example of the same paradox that the whole China displays when it is endowed with important yet tension changed statutory functions ranging from social control to service provision and neighborhood self governance How and under what conditions does the committee carry out its functions What can be learned about changing state society relations from the dynamics of neighborhood politics in China This project draws its analytical framework on the theoretical models of state penetration civil disobedience corporatism and synergy as well as on the practices of American Cuban and Japanese neighborhood organizations and the Chinese rural Villagers Committee The research is designed as a comparative study over four distinctive Residents Committees in Tianjin City Being a fulltime fellow worker for five months I have accumulated in depth information about the committees through daily observation extensive interviews and intensive documentation The four committees functions are identified and explained primarily through their structural connections with the lowest state organ in cities the street office and residents including other neighborhood organizations and activists The study reveals multiple possibilities of Chinese social political transformation Among them emerges a promising trend of state society cooperation which is realigning and accommodating political authoritarianism and economic openness into a seemingly sustainable pattern of development at the urban grassroots Referred to as an amphibian organization spanning public private division the committee highlights the limits of the state society antithesis in the study of political transformation The observed patterns of neighborhood politics also raise caution against the universal applicability of the liberal norm of civil society to countries like China with distinctive conditions from which the original norm is present and constructed Journal of Economic
