Reconstructing Nature Alienation Emancipation And The Division Of Labour:

Reconstructing Nature Peter Dickens, 2002-11-01 One of the main features of the contemporary environmental crisis is that no one has a clear idea of what is going on. The author uses an extension of Marx's theory of alienation to explain why people find it so difficult to relate their different knowledges of the natural and social world. He argues that nevertheless it is possible to relate these to the abstractions of ecological discourse. Emancipation can come only through embracing science and rationality rather than rejecting them and in the process humanity as well as the non-human world will benefit.

Sociological Theory and the Environment Riley E. Dunlap, Frederick H. Buttel, Peter Dickens, August Gijswijt, 2001-12-29 Sociological Theory and the Environment is a comprehensive survey and assessment of sociological theories of the relations between societies and their natural biophysical environment. This book touches on and addresses virtually all of the major perspectives, focal points and debates in environmental sociology today: classical and twentieth-century social theories, macro-micro linkage issues, globalization and development, reflexive modernization, ecological modernization vs. limits viewpoints, modernity and post-modernity, risk society, constructionalism, realism, environmental movements, identities, consumption and environment, cultural sociologies of the environment and so on. At the same time, the book aims to go beyond an inventory of environmental sociological theory. Sociological Theory and the Environment stresses how new ground can be broken in the articulation of environmental sociology with major classical and contemporary sociological theories. Marxist-Feminist

Theories and Struggles Today Khayaat Fakier, Diana Mulinari, Nora Räthzel, 2020-02-15 This vital new collection presents new Marxist-Feminist analyses of Capitalism as a gendered racialized social formation that shapes and is shaped by specific nature-labour relationships. Leaving behind former overtly structuralist thinking, Marxist-Feminist Theories and Struggles Today interweaves strands of ecofeminism and intersectional analyses to develop an understanding of the relations of production and the production of nature through the interdependencies of gender, class, race and colonial relations. With contributions and analyses from scholars and theorists in both the global North and South, this volume offers a truly international lens that reveals the vitality of contemporary global Marxist-Feminist thinking as well as its continued relevance to feminist struggles across the globe. Environment and Social Theory John Barry, 2007-01-24

Written in an engaging and accessible manner by one of the leading scholars in his field, Environment and Social Theory completed, revised and updated with two new chapters, is an indispensable guide to the way in which the environment and social theory relate to one another. This popular text outlines the complex interlinking of the environment, nature and social theory from ancient and pre-modern thinking to contemporary social theorizing. John Barry examines the ways major religions such as Judaism, Christianity and Islam have and continue to conceptualize the environment, analyzes the way the non-human environment features in Western thinking from Marx and Darwin to Freud and Horkheimer, explores the relationship between gender and the environment, postmodernism and risk society, schools of thought and the contemporary ideology of orthodox economic thinking in social theorising about the environment How humans value use and think about the environment is an increasingly central and important aspect of recent social theory It has become clear that the present generation is faced with a series of unique environmental dilemmas largely unprecedented in human history With summary points illustrative examples glossary and further reading sections this invaluable resource will benefit anyone with an interest in environmentalism politics sociology geography development studies and environmental and ecological economics

Pratt, Peter Cheng-Chong Wu, 2016-07-01 Contemporary urbanisation has two faces global flows of people money and information and that of localised social and economic disparities Recent research has focused on the headlines of global cities as control centres of the world economy and social and economic shock waves that have raged through cities and regions but less attention has been paid to the secret life of cities and the changing nature of everyday life in the wake of such changes This book challenges current research and policy agendas recommending spatial concentration and relocation as a solution to the problems of environmental sustainability and social dislocation Instead this book highlights the key linkages between social and environmental problems it argues that neither are likely to be resolved with a simple spatial fix The book draws attention to local contexts of contemporary urbanisation emphasising consideration of policy making from the perspective of the household as a key unit of analysis in identifying links between labour and housing markets transport and leisure This book draws upon detailed household interviews about the daily experience of life in a global city It illustrates the dilemmas and solutions that people routinely find in order to go on in their lives It shows that these local fixes that are managed at the level of the household work in spite of and sometimes against existing policies aimed at sustainability It concludes that policy making needs to be radically overhauled in order to address the integrated nature of people s everyday lives Marxglossar Christoph Henning, 2006 Imagining Nature Andreas Roepstorff, Nils Bubandt, Kalevi Kull, 2003 This book makes an innovative exploration into some of the implications and lacunae associated with the recent push by many social scientists to denaturalise nature The contributors to this volume describe the diverse forms which the dialectic between nature as fact and nature as imagined may take and they show how this seeming dichotomy is a constantly shifting whole BOOKJACKET

Social Darwinism Peter Dickens,2000 Social Darwinism is the extension of Darwin s evolutionary ideas to human society Over the past two centuries it has been argued that the fittest in terms of physical and mental prowess are most likely to survive and reproduce It has also been suggested that the increasingly complex structure of human society mirrors the increasing complexity of nature This highly original text examines whether these extensions from nature to society are justified and considers how dangerous they may be in implying the systematic neglect or even destruction of the least fit It asks what in any case is fitness as applied to human beings It also questions whether human nature is constrained by modern society and whether people evolved as essentially competitive or collaborative Written in a clear and accessible style with text boxes to explain key ideas and little or no biological knowledge required of the reader this book suggests a new way in which evolutionary thought and social theory can be combined Mussolini's Cities Federico Caprotti, 2007 Between 1930 and 1939 the Pontine Marshes became the target of massive national investment internal migration often non voluntary and engineering work Written by an Oxford University professor this book explores the architectural and urban planning aspects of the totalitarian minds which devised and built the new cities
