The income and health care expenditures not paid from personal income provides a useful framework for empirical application of the holistic approach In 1997 approximately 35 percent of the elderly's full income was devoted to health care 65 percent to other goods and services Approximately 56 percent of full income was provided by transfers from the young and 44 percent by the elderly themselves The paper shows how these percentages might change under alternative assumptions about the growth of health care relative to other goods and services and the effect of these changes on the need for more saving and more work prior to Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2002 Advancing Aging Policy as the 21st Century Begins Francis G retirement Caro, Jill Norton, Robert Morris Deceased, 2023-04-28 By the end of the current decade many baby boomers will be senior citizens What policies should we enact to prepare for an aging society In the coming decade we have a unique opportunity to create new and better aging policies This collection of twenty essays by prominent educators researchers and policy analysts in the field of gerontology brings together innovative ideas from the United States Europe and Japan Instead of focusing on utopian dreams these exciting proposals are based on policy changes that may well be attainable in the next ten years The vital concerns addressed in Advancing Aging Policy as the 21st Century Begins include work and retirement issues the aging prison population long term care Latino elders transportation death and dying issues and the aging of the baby boom generation Advancing Aging Policy as the 21st Century Begins explores innovative policies and care arrangements around the world the importance of a strong economy that provides opportunities for seniors who seek them and support for those

Development Policy Implications of Age-structural Transitions in Arab Countries United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia, 2014 This report shows that the Arab countries are currently undergoing profound age structural transitions which will have significant implications for their development It argues that countries can best manage and benefit from the consequences of the age structural transitions taking place across the Arab region by adopting a life course approach in analysis and policy However social and economic policies in the Arab countries have not succeeded in integrating this approach This report therefore suggests reforms across social and economic policy areas including labour market and social protection reforms and suggests how the post 2015 UN Development Agenda can integrate a life course perspective It brings a new urgency to the debate arguing that transformational change is needed to integrate the needs and potentials of the different age groups in the Arab countries
