Horden Beatrice Braithwaite Batty, 1893 Forty-two Years Amongst the Indians and Eskimo Beatrice Batty, 1893 Forty-Two Years Amongst the Indians and Eskimo Beatrice Batty, 2020-09-28 The contents of the present volume are in a large measure the outcome of a long continued personal correspondence with the late Bishop of Moosonee As Editor of the Coral Magazine I received from him many appeals for aid in the various departments of his work I asked for graphic descriptions of the surroundings and I did not ask in vain Questions concerning the daily life of himself and those about him the food and habits of the people modes of travel dress climate products seasons and special incidents were duly answered and fully entered into The bishop had the pen of a ready writer and all that he wrote was graphic in the extreme He was however modestly unaware of his talent in this respect until his eyes were opened to the fact by the well deserved appreciation of the letters and papers which came more frequently and more regularly increasing in interest as time wore on The bulk of this book is made up of extracts from this correspondence with just enough information supplied to give the reader a clear idea of the bishop s life and work The journal of his first voyage to the distant sphere of his future labours he sent to me in quite recent years with the expressed hope that it might be published The various papers and letters afford not only a vivid picture of life amongst the Indians and Eskimo but a valuable example of what may be accomplished even under the most untoward circumstances by indomitable perseverance unwavering fortitude and cheerful self denial accompanied always by prayer and a firm reliance upon God I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me was the bishop s watchword His motto The happiest man is he who is most diligently employed about his Master s business Should the pictures of life and work offered in the accompanying volume lead others to follow in Bishop Horden s footsteps their purpose will have been indeed fulfilled In the year 1670 a few English gentlemen the Governor and Company of Adventurers of England trading to Hudson s Bay obtained a charter from King Charles II The company consisted of but nine or ten merchants They made large profits by bartering English goods with the Indians of those wild and almost unknown regions for furs of the fox otter beaver bear lynx musk minx and ermine The company established forts and garrisoned them with Highlanders and Norwegians The climate was too cold and the food too coarse to attract Englishmen to the service The forts or posts were about a hundred and fifty or two hundred miles apart and to them the Indians resorted in the spring of the year with the furs obtained by hunting snaring and other modes of capture In return for these they obtained guns powder and shot traps kettles axes cloth and blankets The standard of value for everything was a beaver skin Two white foxes were worth one beaver skin two silver foxes were worth eight beaver skins one pocket handkerchief was worth one beaver skin one yard of blue cloth was worth one and a half beaver skins a frying pan was worth two beaver skins As time went on and the value of furs in the market rose or fell the prices of certain things altered But this is a sample of what they were when the hero of our tale first went out to Hudson s Bay in 1851 Let us accompany the young missionary on his voyage to Moose Fort the chief of the company s trading posts We that is my dear wife and myself he writes went on board ship at Gravesend on June 6 1851 Our ship was strongly built double throughout it was armed with thick blocks of timber called ice chocks at the bows to enable it to do battle with the ice it would have to encounter At Stromness we remained a fortnight taking in a portion of our cargo and a number of men who were going to Hudson s Bay in the service of the company It was a solitary voyage All the way we saw but one vessel On a Saturday afternoon we entered the Straits The weather had been very foggy but the fog rose the sun shone out and a most beautiful spectacle presented itself The water was as smooth as a fish pond and in it were lying blocks of ice of all sizes and shapes some of them resembling churches others castles and others hulls of ships while at a considerable distance on either side rose the wild and dreary land a land of desolation and death without a tree or a blade of grass but high and mountainous with masses of snow lying in all the hollows The captain and mates became very anxious The dangers of the voyage had commenced An ice stage raised eight or nine feet above the deck was erected and on this continually walked up and down one or two of the ship s officers A man too was constantly at the bow on the look out and yet the blows we received were very heavy setting the bells a ringing and causing a sensation of fear Exploring the Boundary Waters Daniel
