mass engagement in investing One of Harrington s most intriguing findings is that gender based differences in investing can create a diversity premium groups of men and women together are more profitable than single sex groups In examining the sources of this effect she delves into the interpersonal dynamics that distinguish effective decision making groups from their dysfunctional counterparts In addition Harrington shows that most Americans approach investing not only to make a profit but also to make a statement In effect portfolios have become like consumer products serving both utilitarian and social ends This ties into the growth of socially responsible investing and shareholder activism matters relevant not only to social scientists but also to corporate leaders policymakers and the millions of Americans planning for retirement
