

The sun on the night blooming cereus; or pure in spirit as the mountain stream, bubbling in the pine-bush hollow; an earnest and rugged old character as the granite peaks; and as wide in sympathy as the wide spreading desert, is Sharlot M. Hall, the true lady of the old American's Mansion and Arizona's beloved garden laureate.

Sharlot Hall's life is a record of the past, present, and future. She is an indelible way, in Arizona. As a child she learned the pluck on the old immigrant trails; as a girl she knew him of the early cattle country; as a young woman she studied in the laboratory of Arizona's richest growth; and mature woman she won the recognition of her citizenship as a leader; as a devoted sister would she stand for the "immunities" of Arizona in the days when great with the law and custom which only age can give to these things held dear. Her life well represents the recorded generations of the passing youth, women, and generations and her poems are the best monument that to the Immigrant photographed scenes is projected upon the scenes for later generations to behold."
