Monti, 1988 This collection of the Pulitzer Prize winning author's correspondence includes her observations on contemporaries such as Hemingway Fitzgerald and Wolfe and provides an introduction to her life as well as informative annotations chronology and index      Friendship and Sympathy: Communities of Southern Women Writers Rosemary M. Magee, 1992      American Women Writers, 1900-1945 Laurie Champion, 2000-09-30 Women writers have been traditionally excluded from literary canons and not until recently have scholars begun to rediscover or discover for the first time neglected women writers and their works This reference includes alphabetically arranged entries on 58 American women authors who wrote between 1900 and 1945 Each entry is written by an expert contributor and discusses a particular author's biography her major works and themes and the critical response to her writings The entries close with extensive primary and secondary bibliographies and the volume concludes with a list of works for further reading The period surveyed by this reference is rich and diverse Modernism and the Harlem Renaissance two major artistic movements occurred between 1900 and 1945 and the entries included here demonstrate the significant contributions women made to these movements The volume as a whole strives to reflect the diversity of American culture and includes entries for African American Native American Mexican American and Chinese American women It includes well known writers such as Willa Cather and Eudora Welty along with more neglected ones such as Anita Scott Coleman and Sui Sin Far      Selected Letters of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings to James Branch Cabell and Margaret Freeman Cabell Jacqueline J. Wilken, 1993      Arranging Stories Heather A. Fox, 2022-07-27 Between the 1880s and the 1940s opportunities for southern white women writers increased dramatically bolstered by readers demands for southern stories in northern periodicals Confined by magazine requirements and social expectations writers often relied on regional settings and tropes to attract publishers and readers before publishing work in a collection Selecting and ordering magazine stories for these collections was not arbitrary or dictated by editors despite a male dominated publishing industry Instead it allowed writers to privilege stories or to contextualize a story by its proximity to other tales as a form of social commentary For Kate Chopin Ellen Glasgow Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings and Katherine Anne Porter the authors featured in this book publishing a volume of stories enabled them to construct a narrative framework of their own Arranging Stories Framing Social Commentary in Short Story Collections by Southern Women Writers is as much about how stories are constructed as how they are told The book examines correspondence manuscripts periodicals and first editions of collections Each collection's textual history serves as a case study for changes in the periodical marketplace and demonstrates how writers negotiated this marketplace to publish stories and garner readership The book also includes four tables featuring collected stories arrangements and publication histories and twenty five illustrations featuring periodical publications unpublished letters and manuscript fragments obtained from nine on site and digital archives Short story collections guide readers through a spatial experience in which both individual stories and the ordering of those stories become a framework for interpreting meaning Arranging Stories invites readings that complicate how we engage collected works
