Do Teachers Wish to Be Agents of Change? Allen Menlo, LeVerne Collet, 2015-04-27 This study surveyed principals and teachers in ten countries to compare principal and teacher attitudes toward the involvement of teachers in several change and development responsibilities The participating countries were Australia Canada China Hungary Israel Japan Netherlands Singapore South Africa and United States Each country administered mirror versions of a questionnaire to samples of at least 50 principals and at least 100 teachers The questionnaires listed twenty items describing change responsibilities in which teachers might become involved For each item both principals and teachers assigned two teacher involvement ratings their personal preference and their estimate of the preference of their role counterpart These involvement ratings produced four dependent variables Principal Preferences Principal Estimates Teacher Preferences and Teacher Estimates For each variable item responses were clustered to form index sub scores that measured attitudes toward five education domains Administration and Coordination Human Relations Teacher Support Classroom Learning and Evaluation Systematic planned comparisons were conducted to determine the most important principal teacher issues within and between countries and how issues change across index domains Typical results indicate low awareness of each other's aspirations and expectations The first and last chapters of this book discuss the potential of teacher leaders to become agents of change within their own schools Several social psychological competencies are then described for these teachers in their work      Case Studies In Educational Change David S.G Carter,2012-10-12 This text the second in a two volume set examining the process of educational reform describes case studies on the change process of education as it impacts on the individual at work The authors provide interesting comparisons of similar changes occurring within education in different national settings including Australia New Zealand Israel the USA and the UK The case studies are based on three themes systematic change the transition from policy to practice and curriculum contexts The effects of governmental control over the curriculum and attempts to reform education by legislation are explained and the similarities are seen as marginalisation of professional educators corporatisation of education systems instrumentalisation of curriculum and the inability of those in power to draw from past knowledge on educational change Written to stand alone this book can also be read in conjunction with volume 1 International Perspectives on Educational Reform and Policy Implementation which examines the historical social and economic influences on education policy reform The authors argue that change takes a predictable format and once understood can be directed and managed The books are intended to be of interest to all involved in the planning and implementation of change together pointing the way to effective management of such change processes      Improving Schools Patrick Edmund Delmore,1986
