Quality Matters Seeking Confidence In Evaluation Auditing And Performance Reporting:

Making Accountability Work Maria L. Bemelmans-Videc, Jeremy Lonsdale, Burt Perrin, 2007 Like honesty and clean water accountability is invariably seen as a good thing Conversely the absence of accountability is associated with most of the greatest abuses in human history Accountability is thus closely linked with the exercise of power and the legitimacy of policies and those pursuing them This book looks at the role of evaluation and of audit as key elements in democratic accountability processes The contributors explore the apparent paradox of there being more accountability related activities today than ever before at the same time as much public debate laments what is seen as a lack of actual accountability Such a situation raises a number of questions Is there a need for different approaches to establishing accountability or can current arrangements be modified to make them more effective Are present practices part of the problem and are they preventing a mature debate about performance improvement taking place How can systems awash with performance information ensure that at least some of it makes sense to a wide range of potential users How is it that greater accountability and transparency can so quickly have become associated with concerns about perverse incentives and be seen by some as a costly burden The volume includes detailed case studies and synthesizes up to date research evidence drawn from very different governmental systems ending with practical advice for those involved in the accountability processes In doing so it attempts to address both conceptual ambiguities about the notion of accountability and the practical uncertainties over its implications for democratic government This book is aimed at serious people who think about trends in the use of evaluation and audit in seeking to hold governments accountable for their actions and performance

Quality Matters John Winston Mayne, 2018-12-12 Information regular systematic reliable is the life blood of democracy and the fuel of effective management Surely today there is no problem with information for this is the age of information overload It pours onto our computer screens and out of our printers Indeed many governments claim often with some justification to be more open and transparent than ever before But what if the life blood is contaminated or the fuel polluted Then the body politic sickens and the engine of public management runs rough It is the vital issue of the quality of the information we receive that this book addresses Quality Matters compares approaches across different jurisdictional settings and across three different types of information evaluation The chapters describe and analyze quality assurance in a number of countries and within a variety of international organizations These have been selected either because they are widely considered to be leaders in evaluating information or because they have experience with assuring quality information that can instruct others Contributors are from Australia Canada the European Union France the Netherlands New Zealand Sweden Switzerland United Kingdom United States and the World Bank This pioneering study analyzes practices for assuring the quality of evaluation performance auditing and reporting in the face of political organizational and technical obstacles A final chapter addresses the extent to which quality assurance systems become bothersome rituals or remain meaningful mechanisms to ensure quality control This well structured volume will be of particular interest to policymakers and adds much to the literature on program evaluation and performance auditing

Changing Bureaucracies Burt Perrin, Tony Tyrrell, 2020-11-29 In Changing Bureaucracies international experts provide an unparalleled look at how public sector bureaucracies can better adapt to the reality of unprecedented levels of uncertainty and complexity and how they can better respond to the emerging needs and demands of citizens and beneficiaries In particular they discuss in detail how evaluation can play an important role in aiding bureaucracies in adapting while noting that the value of evaluation is not at all automatic Written in a clear and accessible prose the contributors identify stability as a strength of bureaucratic structures although adaptability is required in order to remain relevant They also emphasize the need for bureaucratic rules and practices to be open to examination such as through evaluation noting that these rules may take on a life of their own increasing distrust and conflicting with a meaningful focus on how outcomes and impacts benefit citizens The book concludes with guidance for both evaluators and for public sector leaders about steps that they can take to improve the responsiveness and relevance of public sector organizations Pioneering the provision of reflections on how evaluation can play an important role in aiding bureaucracies in adapting Changing Bureaucracies is an important acquisition for public sector leaders evaluators evaluation managers and commissioners and academics alike

Mind the Gap Phillip Allman, Jos Vaessen, 2017-07-28 Over the past twenty to thirty years evaluation has become increasingly important to the field of public policy The number of people involved and specializing in evaluation has also increased markedly Evidence of this trend can be found in the International Atlas of Evaluation the establishment of new journals and evaluation societies and the increase in systems of evaluation Increasingly the main reference point has become an assessment of the merit and value of interventions as such rather than the evaluator s disciplinary background This growing importance of evaluation as an activity has also led to an increasing demand for the type of competencies evaluators should have Evaluation began as a niche area within the social and behavioral sciences It subsequently became linked to policy research and analysis and has more recently become trans disciplinary This volume demonstrates an association between the evaluation tradition in a particular country or policy field and the nature of the relationship between social and behavioral science research and evaluative practice This book seeks to offer comprehensive data which lead to conclusions about patterns that transcend the gap between evaluation and the social scientific disciplines Mind the Gap has a twofold aim The first is to highlight and characterize the gap between evaluation practices and debates and the substantive knowledge debates within the social and behavioral sciences The second is to show why this gap is problematic for the practice of evaluation while at the same time illustrating possible ways to build bridges The book is centered on the value of producing useful evaluations grounded in social science theory and research
