Quantitative Zooarchaeology Topics In The Analysis Of Archaeological Faunas:

Quantitative Zooarchaeology Donald K. Grayson, 2014-06-28 Quantitative Zooarchaeology Zooarchaeology in Practice Christina M. Giovas, Michelle J. LeFebvre, 2017-11-24 Zooarchaeology in Practice unites depth of treatment with broad topical coverage to advance methodological discussion and development in archaeofaunal analysis Through case studies historical accounts and technical reviews authored by leading figures in the field the volume examines how zooarchaeological data and interpretation are shaped by its methods of practice and explores the impact of these effects at varying levels of investigation Contributing authors draw on geographically and taxonomically diverse datasets providing instructive approaches to problems in traditional and emerging areas of methodological concern Readers from specialists to students will gain an extensive sophisticated look at important disciplinary issues that are sure to provoke critical reflection on the nature and importance of sound methodology With implications for how archaeologists reconstruct human behavior and paleoecology and broader relevance to fields such as paleontology and conservation biology Zooarchaeology in Practice makes an enduring contribution to the methodological advancement of the discipline Integrating Zooarchaeology and Paleoethnobotany Amber VanDerwarker, Tanya M. Peres, 2010-01-22 In recent years scholars have emphasized the need for more holistic subsistence analyses and collaborative publications towards this endeavor have become more numerous in the literature However there are relatively few attempts to qualitatively integrate zooarchaeological animal and paleoethnobotanical plant data and even fewer attempts to quantitatively integrate these two types of subsistence evidence Given the vastly different methods used in recovering and quantifying these data not to mention their different preservational histories it is no wonder that so few have undertaken this problem Integrating Zooarchaeology and Paleoethnobotany takes the lead in tackling this important issue by addressing the methodological limitations of data integration proposing new methods and innovative ways of using established methods and highlighting case studies that successfully employ these methods to shed new light on ancient foodways The volume challenges the perception that plant and animal foodways are distinct and contends that the separation of the analysis of archaeological plant and animal remains sets up a false dichotomy between these portions of the diet In advocating qualitative and quantitative data integration the volume establishes a clear set of methods for 1 determining the suitability of data integration in any particular case and 2 carrying out an integrated qualitative or quantitative approach Ethnozooology Romulo Romeu Nobrega Alves, Ulysses Paulino Albuquerque, 2017-10-23 Ethnozooology Animals In Our Lives represents the first book about this discipline providing a discussion on key themes on human animal interactions and their implications along with recent major advances in research Humans share the world with a bewildering variety of other animals and have interacted with them in different ways This variety of interactions both past and present is investigated through ethnozooology which is a hybrid discipline structured with elements from both the natural and social sciences as it seeks to understand how humans have perceived and interacted with faunal resources throughout history In a broader context ethnozoology and its companion discipline ethnobotany form part of the larger body of the science of ethnobiology In recent years the importance of ethnozoological ethnobiological studies has increasingly been recognized unsurprisingly given the strong human influence on biodiversity From the perspective of ethnozoology the book addresses all aspects of human connection animals and health from its use in traditional medicine to bioprospecting derivatives of fauna for pharmaceuticals with expert contributions from leading researchers in the field Draws on editors and contributors extensive research experience and studies covering ethnozoology and ethnobiology Covers all aspects of human animal interaction through the lens of this emerging discipline with coverage of both domestic and wild animal topics Presents topics of great interest to a variety of researchers including those in wildlife conservation biologists ecologists conservationists and domestic related disciplines psychologists sociologists

An Introduction to Zooarchaeology Diane Gifford-Gonzalez, 2018-04-03 This volume is a comprehensive critical introduction to vertebrate zooarchaeology the field that explores the history of human relations with animals from the Pliocene to the Industrial Revolution The book is organized into five sections each with an introduction that leads the reader systematically through this swiftly expanding field Section One presents a general introduction to zooarchaeology key definitions and an historical survey of the emergence of zooarchaeology in the Americas Europe Asia and Africa and introduces the conceptual approach taken in the book This volume is designed to allow readers to integrate data from the book along with that acquired elsewhere within a coherent analytical framework Most of its chapters take the form of critical review articles providing a portal into both the classic and current literature and contextualizing these with original commentary Summaries of findings are enhanced by profuse illustrations by the author and others

Zooarchaeology and Modern Human Origins Jamie L. Clark, John D. Speth, 2013-07-11 Recent genetic data showing that Neanderthals interbred with modern humans have made it clear that deeper insight into the behavioral differences between these populations will be critical to understanding the rapid spread of modern humans and the demise of the Neanderthals This volume which brings together scholars who have worked with faunal assemblages from Europe the Near East and Africa makes an important contribution to our broader understanding of Neanderthal extinction and modern human origins through its focus on variability in human hunting behavior between 70 25 000 years ago a critical period in the later evolution of our species

Zooarchaeology Elizabeth J. Reitz, Elizabeth S. Wing, 1999-02-04 Zooarchaeology is a detailed reference manual for students and professional archaeologists interested in identifying and analysing animal remains from archaeological sites Drawing on material from all over the world and covering a time span from the Pleistocene to the nineteenth century AD the emphasis is on animals whose remains inform us about many aspects of the relationships between humans and their natural and social environments especially site formation processes subsistence strategies and paleoenvironments The authors discuss suitable methods and theories for all vertebrate classes and molluscs and include hypothetical examples to demonstrate these There are extensive references and illustrations to help in the process of identification

Neanderthal Complex Behaviour Through the Lens of Faunal Resources

Mariana Nabais, Ruth Blasco, 2025-12-05 Back in the 19th century when evolution was becoming established it was easy to assume that fossil meant primitive. Such a notion continued and it implied that human complex behaviors were considered hallmarks of modernity and therefore exclusive to Anatomically Modern Humans (AMH). However, in recent decades, archaeology has demonstrated that both cognitively and behaviorally, Neanderthals were no different from their contemporary African populations from which our ancestry mostly derives. Additionally, there have been an increasing number of examples where a single skeleton displays a combination of Neanderthal and AMH morphological characteristics. Recent genetic studies have also confirmed these ideas of interbreeding, showing that most current western world populations carry Neanderthal genes. This genetic work has enhanced the growing body of evidence displaying Neanderthal complexity, like their use of personal ornamentation, their probable artistic representations in some Spanish caves, or their adaptability to different resources and environments. Zooarchaeological investigation is seen as key in detecting Neanderthal complex behaviors and can advance our understanding in one of the most debated issues in Paleolithic Archaeology. The traditional idea of Neanderthals avoiding the coast and their marine resources, or their disregard for small size prey like birds, rabbits, or tortoises, has been put into question. Multiple archaeological sites have shown evidence of intentionally broad diets in Neanderthals, marked by the inclusion of a wide range of animals from very large to small game, and the consumption of aquatic resources. Zooarchaeology has been pivotal in providing evidence to disprove long-standing notions of Neanderthal inability to not only adapt to changing environments but also their inability to procure, process, store, and preserve faunal resources, and even use these faunal resources as raw materials for tool production and ornamentation. The goal of this Research Topic is two-fold: 1) to present new evidence that challenges the traditionally accepted models in which Neanderthals are seen as limited in their faunal resource use; 2) to design new models in which ecological adaptability and faunal resource use trends can demonstrate Neanderthal's malleable and complex behaviors. The scope of this collection will comprehensively compile the current developments and recent advancements in the field of zooarchaeology from Neanderthal contexts. We welcome original research, systematic review, methods review, hypothesis, theory, article types, as well as mini reviews, perspectives, case reports, and brief research reports. Areas to be covered in this Research Topic may include but are not limited to: Large and small prey use by Neanderthals; e.g., food, raw materials, ornamentation; Neanderthal provisioning strategies of faunal resources; Neanderthal processing activities of faunal resources; Neanderthal preservation and storing of faunal resources; Neo-taphonomic experimentations with faunal specimens.

Field Methods in

Archaeology Thomas R. Hester, Harry J. Shafer, Kenneth L. Feder, 2016-09-16 Field Methods in Archaeology has been the leading source for instructors and students in archaeology courses and field schools for 60 years since it was first authored in 1949 by the legendary Robert Heizer. Left Coast has arranged to put the most recent Seventh Edition back into print after a brief hiatus making this classic textbook again available to the next generation of archaeology students This comprehensive guide provides an authoritative overview of the variety of methods used in field archaeology from research design to survey and excavation strategies to conservation of artifacts and record keeping Authored by three leading archaeologists with specialized contributions by several other experts this volume deals with current issues such as cultural resource management relations with indigenous peoples and database management as well as standard methods of archaeological data collection and analysis
