Selected Prose of Oscar Wilde Large Print By Oscar Wilde HOW THEY STRUCK A CONTEMPORARY There is such a thing as robbing a story of its reality by trying to make it too true and The Black Arrow is so inartistic as not to contain a single anachronism to boast of while the transformation of Dr Jekyll reads dangerously like an experiment out of the Lancet As for Mr Rider Haggard who really has or had once the makings of a perfectly magnificent liar he is now so afraid of being suspected of genius that when he does tell us anything marvellous he feels bound to invent a personal reminiscence and to put it into a footnote as a kind of cowardly corroboration Nor are our other novelists much better Mr Henry James writes fiction as if it were a painful duty and wastes upon mean motives and imperceptible points of view his neat literary style his felicitous phrases his swift and caustic satire Mr Hall Caine it is true aims at the grandiose but then he writes at the top of his voice He is so loud that one cannot bear what he says Mr James Payn is an adept in the art of concealing what is not worth finding He hunts down the obvious with the enthusiasm of a short sighted detective As one turns over the pages the suspense of the author becomes almost unbearable The horses of Mr William Black s phaeton do not soar towards the sun We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience

Selected Prose of Oscar Wilde, Shorter Prose Pieces & The Ballad of Reading Gaol Oscar Wilde, 2020-09

The Ballad of Reading Gaol is a poem by Oscar Wilde written in exile in Berneval le Grand after his release from Reading Gaol r d d e l on 19 May 1897 Wilde had been incarcerated in Reading after being convicted of gross indecency with other men in 1895 and sentenced to two years hard labour in prison During his imprisonment on Tuesday 7 July 1896 a hanging took place Charles Thomas Wooldridge had been a trooper in the Royal Horse Guards He was convicted of cutting the throat of his wife Laura Ellen earlier that year at Clewer near Windsor He was aged 30 when executed Wilde wrote the poem in mid 1897 while staying with Robert Ross in Berneval le Grand The poem narrates the execution of Wooldridge it moves from an objective story telling to symbolic identification with the prisoners as a whole No attempt is made to assess the justice of the laws which convicted them but rather the poem highlights the brutalisation of the punishment that all convicts share Wilde juxtaposes the executed man and himself with the line Yet each man kills the thing he loves Wilde too was separated from his wife and sons He adopted the proletarian ballad form and suggested it be published in Reynold s Magazine because it circulates widely among the criminal classes to which I now belong for once I will be read by my peers a new experience for me

Revival: The Psychology of Persuasion (1920)

William MacPherson, 2018-05-08 In the first three chapters of this book the elements of persuasion as a mental process are distinguished and various forms of false persuasion in individuals and groups are described it is shown how from the very nature of the process involved our persuasion of ourselves is only too apt to degenerate into self deception and how our persuasion of others may easily assume the form of a deliberate attempt to exploit their mental or moral weaknesses Chapter IV indicates how the tendencies of false persuasion may be counteracted and on what lines persuasion may be rightly directed Up to this point the subject is treated mainly in its psychological aspect The subsequent chapters which are closely related to and follow naturally the study of persuasion as a mental process deal with persuasion more exclusively as a form of expression In this part of the book special attention is given to such modern forms of propaganda as advertisements newspapers the cinematograph the novel and the drama
