If You Can't Trust Your Mother, Whom Can You Trust? Leonard Shengold, 2018-05-01 The main theme of this book concerns the continuing psychic centrality of parents for their children. Several chapters examine an author and his works outlining that author's relationships with parents good and bad and making descriptive comments about these based both on information gleaned from the author's life and writings as well as from observations found in autobiographies, biographies and critical works. Since these studies in part concern stories of child abuse and deprivation, the book predominantly illustrates bad parenting that seems to have contributed to the child's psychopathology. Yet in most cases there has also been an evocation by the trauma and deprivation of adaptive and even creative reactions; this positive effect also of course largely attributable to concomitant good parenting and yet there are some cases where little of this seems to have existed and yet the children still turn out to be able to make something of themselves. The conditions that make for psychic health in a traumatized childhood are mysterious and can't always be accounted for.

Colonial India in Children's Literature Supriya Goswami, 2012-07-26 Colonial India in Children's Literature is the first book length study to explore the intersections of children's literature and defining historical moments in colonial India. Engaging with important theoretical and critical literature that deals with colonialism, hegemony and marginalization in children's literature, Goswami proposes that British, Anglo-Indian and Bengali children's literature respond to five key historical events: the missionary debates preceding the Charter Act of 1813, the defeat of Tipu Sultan, the Mutiny of 1857, the birth of Indian nationalism and the Swadeshi movement resulting from the Partition of Bengal in 1905. Through a study of works by Mary Sherwood (1775-1851), Barbara Hofland (1770-1844), Sara Jeanette Duncan (1861-1922), Rudyard Kipling (1865-1936), Upendrakishore Ray (1863-1915) and Sukumar Ray (1887-1923), Goswami examines how children's literature negotiates and represents these momentous historical forces that unsettled Britain's imperial ambitions in India. Goswami argues that nineteenth-century British and Anglo-Indian children's texts reflect two distinct moods in Britain's colonial enterprise in India. Sherwood and Hofland, writing before 1857, use the tropes of conversion and captivity as a means of awakening children to the dangers of India, whereas Duncan and Kipling shift the emphasis to martial prowess, adaptability and empirical knowledge as defining qualities in British and Anglo-Indian children. Furthermore, Goswami's analysis of early nineteenth-century children's texts written by women authors redresses the preoccupation with male authors and boys' adventure stories that have largely informed discussions of juvenility in the context of colonial India. This groundbreaking book also seeks to open up the canon by examining early twentieth-century Bengali children's texts that not only draw literary inspiration from nineteenth-century British children's literature but whose themes are equally shaped by empire.

The Craft John Dickie, 2020-08-04. Convincingly researched and thoroughly entertaining. Wall Street Journal, THE TIMES, BEST BOOKS OF 2020. This book shows that despite rumours of demon dwarfs, piano playing crocodiles and world domination, the real story of the Freemasons is one of male eccentricity. The Craft is a superb book that often reads like an adventure novel. It's informative, fascinating and often very funny. The depth of research is awe-inspiring, but what really makes this book is the author's visceral understanding of what constitutes a good story. The Times Book of the Week. John Dickie takes on this sensational subject with a wry turn of phrase and the cool judgment of a fine historian. I enjoyed this book enormously. Dickie's gaze is both wide and penetrating. He makes a persuasive case for masonry's historic importance.

Dominic Sandbrook Sunday Times The Craft is a shadow history of modernity Though more sober than most lodge meetings it is like its subject ingenious and frequently bizarre The Craft is well crafted and sensible making good use of English archives which have only recently been opened Spectator Insiders call it the Craft To the rest of us Freemasonry is mysterious and suspect Yet its story is peopled by some of the most distinguished men of the last three centuries Winston Churchill and Walt Disney Wolfgang Mozart and Shaquille O Neal Benjamin Franklin and Buzz Aldrin Rudyard Kipling and Buffalo Bill Cody Duke Ellington and the Duke of Wellington Founded in London in 1717 as a set of character forming ideals and a way of binding men in fellowship Freemasonry proved so addictive that within two decades it had spread across the globe Masonic influence became pervasive Under George Washington the Craft became a creed for the new American nation Masonic networks held the British empire together Under Napoleon the Craft became a tool of authoritarianism and then a cover for revolutionary conspiracy Both the Mormon Church and the Sicilian mafia owe their origins to Freemasonry The Masons were as feared as they were influential In the eyes of the Catholic Church Freemasonry has always been a den of devil worshippers For Hitler Mussolini and Franco the Lodges spread the diseases of pacifism socialism and Jewish influence so had to be crushed Professor Dickie s The Craft is a surprising and enthralling exploration of a movement that not only helped to forge modern society but still has substantial contemporary influence With 400 000 members in Britain over a million in the USA and around six million across the world understanding the role of Freemasonry is as important now as it has ever been
