W. S. Merwin Cary Nelson, Ed Folsom, 1987 Translation - Theory and Practice Daniel Weissbort, Astradur Eysteinnsson, 2006-08-04

Translation Theory and Practice A Historical Reader responds to the need for a collection of primary texts on translation in the English tradition from the earliest times to the present day Based on an exhaustive survey of the wealth of available materials the Reader demonstrates throughout the link between theory and practice with excerpts not only of significant theoretical writings but of actual translations as well as excerpts on translation from letters interviews autobiographies and fiction The collection is intended as a teaching tool but also as an encyclopaedia for the use of translators and writers on translation It presents the full panoply of approaches to translation without necessarily judging between them but showing clearly what is to be gained or lost in each case Translations of key texts such as the Bible and the Homeric epic are traced through the ages with the same passages excerpted making it possible for readers to construct their own map of the evolution of translation and to evaluate in their historical contexts the variety of approaches The passages in question are also accompanied by ad verbum versions to facilitate comparison The bibliographies are likewise comprehensive The editors have drawn on the expertise of leading scholars in the field including the late James S Holmes Louis Kelly Jonathan Wilcox Jane Stevenson David Hopkins and many others In addition significant non English texts such as Martin Luther s Circular Letter on Translation which may be said to have inaugurated the Reformation are included helping to set the English tradition in a wider context Related items such as the introductions to their work by Tudor and Jacobean translators or the work of women translators from the sixteenth to eighteenth centuries have been brought together in collages marking particularly important moments or developments in the history of translation This comprehensive reader provides an invaluable and illuminating resources for scholars and students of translation and English literature as well as poets cultural historians and professional translators

Selected Translations Ted Hughes, 2006 The achievement of Ted Hughes as a poet is inseparable from his achievement as a translator of poetry and poetic drama Throughout a long and intensely productive career Hughes was continuously engaged in acts of translation for the page and for the stage starting with his role in the establishment of the annual Poetry International in London and the magazine Modern Poetry in Translation which he co founded with Daniel Weissbort in 1965 and which notably brought to attention poets such as the Israeli Yehuda Amichai the Hungarian Janos Pilinszky and the Yugoslav Vasko Popa The present volume edited by Weissbort surveys this aspect of Hughes's canon for the first time offering a broad selection from his numerous translations together with hitherto unpublished material versions of Paul Eluard or of Yves Bonnefoy and excerpts from essays and letters Strongly rooted in a native tradition Hughes was nevertheless indebted to literary cultures other than his own and his work far transcends national boundaries The present volume selects from his versions from a wide variety of ancient texts the Tibetan Book of the Dead Aeschylus Euripides Ovid Seneca Racine and equally from a range of twentieth century European poets and dramatists
