Glickman, 1998 An esteemed veteran of numerous school reform efforts tackles education's most urgent questions Educator Carl D Glickman shows how to narrow the gap between democratic aspirations and practice and what schools must do day to day to teach and carry out the ideals of Jeffersonian democracy Implementing Schoolwide Programs: An idea book on planning, 1998 The Manufactured Crisis David C. Berliner, Bruce Jesse Biddle, 1997 Over the past decade a rising chorus of critics from William Bennett to Allan Bloom has decried the supposedly dire state of our public schools Kids aren't learning what they should violence and chaos reign in the classroom and bureaucracy strangles attempts at reform But how much of that grim image is really true In The Manufactured Crisis two prominent scholars prize winning educational psychologist David C Berliner and leading social psychologist Bruce J Biddle fight back with the good news They debunk a whole series of familiar but untrue statistics about public schools that SAT scores have been dropping when for many groups they are in fact rising that illiteracy is up when in fact the numbers have been skewed because schools are now educating the traditionally disenfranchised in ever larger numbers that investments in public education do not pay off when in fact they lead to greater student achievements and life earnings that private schools are inherently better than public schools when in fact the evidence does not support this charge Berliner and Biddle tear through these and other sensational myths to give the reader an honest look at public education in America and the misguided often tragic proposals that critics have urged for correcting these fictive problems In addition they expose and offer solutions to the real problems American public schools face today schools that continue to provide an increasingly diverse citizenry with the opportunity to better their lives

Every Teacher as a Leader Marilyn Katzenmeyer, Gayle Moller, 1996-11-05 Every day principals assistant principals superintendents and others in educational leadership positions struggle to manage day to day school operations and still find time to champion school reform Meanwhile teachers remain a largely untapped resource With their daily access to students and immediate understanding of what contributes to and what stands in the way of improving learning experiences teachers have the knowledge experience and leadership potential to bring about significant reform But how can principals and others effectively tap this resource What leadership roles are appropriate for teachers given their other responsibilities Where can they be most effective How can schools identify potential leaders among teachers and support their leadership work The authors of this volume address these and other important questions providing insights and ideas for ways to capitalize on this important but sadly underutilized resource This is the first issue of
