This assignment requires that you first invest yourself in a set of assignments related to argumentation, research methods, research writing, and documentation. These preliminary assignments (such as the Preliminary Zotero Research Report) will prepare you to write a powerful research-based argumentation essay by which you can demonstrate your ability to

1. analyze others' writing from a variety of perspectives and make thoughtful evaluative decisions based on such analysis; and
2. develop your own effective and original written communication.

Read everything below with care and following all hyperlinks will help ensure that you fulfill all the requirements for this assignment.

Length and Subject Area

Using your Preliminary Zotero Research Report as a starting point, write a 2000-word, argumentation essay on any debatable topic related to climate change. Your paper must support a formal thesis statement with properly documented research materials. Take care to ensure that your topic is properly narrowed or focused so that you do not end up writing in vague generalizations.

Use of Conventions of Argumentation

Your paper must have a formal thesis statement.

Your paper must also use all three traditional appeals: logos, pathos, and ethos. This means that your paper must exhibit

- good reasoning by thoroughly analyzing arguments both in favor of and in opposition to your own view and by avoiding logical fallacies;
- a strong connection with readers' emotions through examples and analyses that activate shared, universal values; and
- appeals to credibility by
 - using the views of bona fide experts and/or credible, accurate, and current web sites to support your argument;
 - objectively acknowledging and analyzing the views of those who oppose your argument (i.e., you may refute, accept, and/or overrule your opposition's arguments, but you may not ignore them);
 - maintaining an objective tone and point of view; and

A Brief Analysis of Interactions through Arguments, Semantics, and Context Awareness Arghya Ray, 2015-01-05 Document from the year 2015 in the subject Sociology Religion language English abstract Without the fear of contradicting anyone it can generally be held that academicians worldwide describe Karl Marx as an atheist This point needs not to be challenged or scrutinised in great depths The reason is that Marx s personal mentality or intellectual bending does not profoundly affect the making of Marxism and its applications to the real world The first country to embrace scientific socialism along Marxist lines came into existence in the form of erstwhile Soviet Union The Soviet Union or the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics USSR was a country that began taking shape in the year 1917 However Marx had died rather long ago in the year 1883 So any attempt to find a direct personalised connection between Marx and USSR is nothing but academically irrelevant This irrelevance is further bulged when it is considered that Marx was especially interested in the affairs of Germany According to Marx only well developed capitalist economies were expected to be at the verge of a socialist revolution Desai 2004 However when the Bolsheviks of a backward capitalist country like Russia managed to establish the USSR Marx s predictions came under close scrutiny by the contemporary thinkers Desai 2004 In the current research work the economic importance of this development is not the main focus area The main focus area is Marxism and religion The main point of contention is not what Marx thought about religion Overwhelming majority of scholars think that Marx was a decided atheist However the main point of contention is what Marxists should actually do while handling religion Religion even in its simplest form has the capability of manifesting as both personalised and socially dispersed phenomena While exploring a possible alternative to capitalism Marxist and pro Marxist leaders contemplated on various societal issues which included religion and theology as well Desai 2004 Lobkowicz 1964 So it is a complex yet necessary pursuit to understand how Marxism needs religion to be handled If Marxism were completely antireligious then most of the world s socialist governments would not have allowed religious freedom at least officially For example even the Soviet Constitution did never authorise the state to destroy religion or persecute people on religious grounds Ginsburgs 1982 This kind of approach cannot be simplified just on the basis of a longing for internationalism Topical Themes in Argumentation Theory Frans H. van Eemeren, Bart Garssen, 2012-05-05 Topical Themes in Argumentation Theory brings together twenty exploratory studies on important subjects of research in contemporary argumentation theory The essays are based on papers that were presented at the 7th Conference of the International Society for the Study of Argumentation ISSA in Amsterdam in June 2010 They give an impression of the nature and the variety of the kind of research that has recently been carried out in the study of argumentation The volume starts with three essays that provide stimulating theoretical perspectives on argumentation Subsequently some views are explained on the intriguing topics of dissensus and deep disagreement After a discussion of three different approaches to the treatment of types of argumentation some classical themes from antique argumentation theory are revisited The new research area of visual argumentation is explored in the next part The volume concludes with three reports of experimental studies concerning argumentative discourse The volume starts with three essays that provide stimulating theoretical perspectives on argumentation Subsequently some views are explained on the intriguing topics of dissensus and deep disagreement After a discussion of three different approaches to the treatment of types of argumentation some classical themes from antique argumentation theory are revisited The new research area of visual argumentation is explored in the next part The volume concludes with three reports of experimental studies concerning argumentative discourse
