on Communication in the People's Republic of China James A. Schnell, 1999-10-13 China's development from a traditional society to a technologically advanced completely modern republic has been extraordinarily rapid. Due to developments since the mid 1980s Chinese daily life for many has jumped directly from that constrained by an agricultural economy to that liberated by the information age. In Perspectives on Communication in the People's Republic of China James Schnell chronicles these changes and their impact on mass communication. He looks closely at Chinese newspaper reports and television programs and listens to government officials and people in the street providing readers with an insider's view of the current state of communication in China from the political to the personal. Grouped under the major categories of politics, education and health are observations gleaned from Schnell's nine visits to China as a visiting scholar and military attaché. Ethnographic case studies are supported by examples from the media and supplemented with extensive references. Schnell concludes his fascinating look at contemporary China with an examination of cross-cultural communication on the most sophisticated level that between President Clinton and Chinese officials during Clinton's 1998 visit to China. This book is must reading for students of Asian studies with an interest in communications and is ideal supplementary reading for courses in both communications and Asian studies. Currency Wars with China and Japan in Western Newsmagazines Damien Ng, 2022-02-27 This book explores China's currency wars with its trading partners in four Western newsmagazines: Time, The Economist, L'Express and Der Spiegel. Based on both quantitative and qualitative approaches, the interdisciplinary approach adopted in the research draws on two analytical frameworks from the realm of critical discourse analysis: van Leeuwen's socio-semantic inventory of social actor representation and van Dijk's concepts of macro rules as the overarching approaches to understand the changing dynamics of international relations and the global economy through Western media. The sample in this study consists of 160 texts, half of which are focused on China and the other half on Japan across a period of 12 months in 2010 (China) and in 1987 (Japan). Through the comparison of Western representation between China and Japan, the similarities and differences in their coverage have been revealed as even more striking with regards to global politics and the international economy. The findings obtained from the empirical research have revealed that China was not only reported more unfavourably than Japan in terms of depth but also across a broader range of areas spanning economics, politics and military affairs. It has also emerged that all the four Western newsmagazines tended to centre their coverage on the US and China in 2010 and the US and Japan in 1987, although they did not speak in one collective voice with regard to their coverage of China and Japan.
