Heidegger with Derrida Dror Pimentel, 2019-01-09

Heidegger with Derrida: Being Written attempts for the first time to think Heidegger's philosophy through the lens of Derrida's logocentric thesis according to which speech has throughout the history of metaphysics been given primacy over writing. The book offers a detailed account of Derrida's arguments about the debasement of writing, an account that leads to a new definition of writing, conceiving it epistemically rather than linguistically. Heidegger's analysis of the gaze and critique of the modern subject are shown to have logocentric features. This surprising conclusion entails that Heidegger is well within the metaphysical tradition which he labored so intently to overcome. The book sheds new light on the philosophical roots of Heidegger's involvement with Nazism, arguing that his hierarchical thinking, the hallmark of logocentrism and metaphysics, condones violent differentiation between the proper race and the Other.

Ten Lectures on Language, Culture and Mind Chris Sinha, 2017-08-28

In this interdisciplinary collection of lectures, Chris Sinha presents an overview of topics ranging from language in children's play through cultural conceptualizations of time to philosophical and linguistic relativism. The intertwining of the evolutionary and individual time scales of human development is a key theme unifying the lectures, as is the fundamentally cultural nature of language and cognition. Familiar topics in cognitive linguistics such as spatial semantics and conceptual blending are addressed from these cultural, comparative, and developmental perspectives. Chris Sinha also discusses the psychological roots of key concepts in cognitive linguistics and sets out a biocultural approach to language evolution.

The Biological Mind Justin Garson, 2022-03-16

For some, biology explains all there is to know about the mind. Yet many big questions remain: Is the mind shaped by genes or the environment? If mental traits are the result of adaptations built up over thousands of years, as evolutionary psychologists claim, how can such claims be tested? If the mind is a machine, as biologists argue, how does it allow for something as complex as human thought? Revised and updated to take account of new developments in the field, The Biological Mind: A Philosophical Introduction explores these questions and more, using the philosophy of biology to introduce and assess the nature of the mind Justin Garson addresses the following key topics moral psychology altruism and levels of selection evolutionary psychology and the adaptationism debate genes environment and the nature nurture debate natural selection and mental representation psychiatric classification and the maladapted mind This second edition includes three new chapters on race sex and human nature as well as new sections on group and kin selection psychological altruism and cultural evolution Including chapter summaries annotated further readings a glossary of terms and examples and case studies throughout this is an indispensable introduction for those teaching philosophy of mind philosophy of psychology and philosophy of biology It will also be an excellent resource for those in related fields such as biology
